HITLER AND MUSSOLINI DEMAND FULL FRENCH CAPITULATION

Calls Pan-American Conference

U. S. SUGGESTS EARLY SESSION OF TRADE MEET

Western Hemisphere Problems Caused by European War Studied.

13 NATIONS REPLY

Early Meeting In Havana Suggested by Sumner Welles.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—The United States has initiated a formal move for an early session of the Pan American republics to consider western hemisphere problems growing out of the European war.

Sumner Welles, undersecretary of state, disclosed at his press conference today that the 20 other American republics were advised on Monday that the United States believed present conditions made an immediate session advisable.

Welles said replies already had been received from 13 of the governments and that he expected to hear from all the others by tomorrow.

The date of the conference, not yet set, is expected to be early. Havana was chosen for the next regular meeting of the Pan-American conference in October and the United States has advised the other governments that it is agreeable to holding the earlier meeting there also but Welles said other governments might suggest a different meeting place.

As for the agenda, Welles said it was possible that an economic plan now under consideration by government officials for the western hemisphere would be among the subjects considered.

The conference call went out as congress studied, with mixed reactions, President Roosevelt's suggestion yesterday for compulsory government services for all youths between the ages of 18 and 21, for a period of one year.

The chief executive discussed universal training during his press conference yesterday, saying that he might communicate with congress on the subject within the

Nazis Take Over General Motors Plant In Germany

WASHINGTON — (INS) — The Nazi government has taken over the General Motors plant in Germany for the manufacture of munitions, the war department has been informed by William S. Knudsen, member of the national defense council.

Knudsen, it was learned today, furnished this information in an address to the army industrial college.

Knudsen's statement disclosed that General Motors officials in Germany had resigned when the Nazi government insisted that their plant be utilized for manufacture of war materials.

Knudsen said that, while the British government had requisitioned the output of General Motors plants in England, company officials were not asked to manufacture munitions.

Eleven Killed In Air Raids Over England

Bombing of Wide Area Marks Opening of British Battle.

BULLETIN

LONDON —(AP)— The British government is studying the possibility of negotiating with Soviet Russia for purchase of tanks, guns, airplanes and other war weapons, Richard A. Butler, permanent undersecretary for foreign affairs, told the house of commons today.

(By International News Service)

LONDON — Prime Minister Winston Churchill's forecast that the battle of Britain is about to begin was borne out today by the largest series of air raids that the British Isles have yet experienced.

Eleven persons were killed and 14 injured by German bombs dropped from planes which last night and early today soared over wide areas of England.

While the figures listing 11 killed and 14 injured were the official tabulation, it was reported later that the toll had risen to 14 killed and 16 injured.

It was stated authoritatively that about 100 German planes participated in the raids.

Of these 40 took part in the East Anglia attacks, arriving in waves every 15 minutes.

Heaviness of the bombs was illustrated by the fact that a row of cottages in an East Anglian town where nine persons were killed was virtually flattened by two bombs.

The main objective of the attack was airdromes on the east coast, authoritative circles said, but damage generally was very slight and the bomb-dropping scattered.

Royal Air Force fighters accounted for at least five of the seven planes brought down.

British spokesmen said that the Germans, who apparently operated from bases in Holland, were aided by perfect weather conditions "which may not occur once in a hundred days."

Chief damage apparently was done in East Anglia, where several bombs hit streets in the poorer section of one undesignated town.

U. S. Submarine Chasers May Now Be Sold to British.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The navy disclosed today that it had cleared the way for the Electric Boat Company of Groton, Conn., to sell to the British 20 high speed submarine chasers and motor torpedo boats originally ordered for the United States fleet.

The navy department changed its contract with the boat company, officials reported, to provide for a delay in delivery of 20 vessels ordered by the navy.

As Heavy Rain Created 'Lake' In Street

Four feet of water in Bennett street—that was part of the aftermath of yesterday's torrential rain. Top photo shows youngsters in the neighborhood wading in the shallower part of the lake. RAIN FLOODS 1,000 HOMES

Two-Inch Downpour Hits City; Cattle Killed by Lightning Near Crestline.

Rainfall of 2.06 inches—heaviest of the year—brought flooded basements to more than 1,000 Mansfield homes yesterday and kept city street department employes busy all night.

The rain which started at 8 a. m. and continued, with only one interruption, until 2 p. m., flooded streets, clogged sewers, carried small streams of the county over their banks, and brought temperatures down to 74 this morning. Cooler temperatures are forecast for tonight and Thursday, with a promise of fair weather tomorrow.

Heaviest part of the storm broke about 1 p. m. and for an hour the rain came down in torrents. Down town streets were flooded, some of them from curb to curb as storm sewers were unable to carry off the heavy fall of rain.

City hall had a two-way flood of its own—water in the basement and a flood of calls and angry protests from citizens whose basements were flooded with water and waste from backed-up sanitary sewers.

Mayor W. J. Locke estimated that more than a thousand basements were flooded with from three inches to three feet of sewer water.

Seven head of purebred cattle were killed by lightning on the farm of Henry Voegele, near Crestline. They had sought shelter from the storm under a tree.

Mansfield Woman Stabbed to Death; Police Jail Suspect

Stabbed in the throat, Mrs. Lena Morton, 34, colored, was found dead in a bedroom of her home, 244½ North Mulberry street, last night shortly before midnight and police today said they were holding a 37-year-old colored man as a suspect in the slaying.

Assistant County Prosecutor Harold T. Lutz said this morning that jealously undoubtedly was the motive in the murder. He said a charge probably would be filed against the suspect tomorrow.

Police were notified at 11:45 last night that a woman had been injured at the Mulberry street address. The call was made by another tenant in the house. Officers John Steele and John Groinoi sped to the home in a police cruiser and found the woman dead on the floor of a bedroom.

Acting Coroner D. C. Lavender said she died of a spinal injury caused by knife wound. The knife, he said entered the left side of her throat, penetrated the back of the throat and there severed the spinal cord.

U. S. Decides to Give City New Postoffice

$310,000 Structure Being Planned for Mansfield, Donahey Says; Plan to Remodel Old Building Given Up.

The postoffice department will build a new postoffice in Mansfield instead of remodeling and enlarging the present building, U. S. Senator Vic Donahey said today in a letter to John G. Routzon, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce.

Senator Donahey said cost of the new building had been set at $310,000, but he did not indicate whether funds had been appropriated for the project.

An appropriation of $180,000 was made several months ago for an addition to the present postoffice building and the purchase of a building site just east of the postoffice on West Fourth street.

The site cost $26,000, however, and postoffice officials at Washington said they had been unable to get satisfactory bids on a proposed addition that could be built for the $154,000 left after the site was purchased.

Senator Donahey said for that reason postal officials believed it would be better to give up the remodeling plan and build a new postoffice instead.

CLOSE BEHIND

Terms Not Open To Negotiation, Berlin Declares

President Leburn Appoints Envoy to Meet Axis Leaders; Germans Admit French Fleet Probably Spirited Away Already By British; All English Troops Return From France to Defend Home Soil.

BULLETIN

ROME—(AP Via Radio)—The Rome radio in a broadcast tonight said it was learned that Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini had ordered their armies to positions along a "united, strategic line" from the Atlantic to the Mediterranean for a "final attack" on France should she reject their peace conditions.

(By Associated Press)

A picture of France in bondage—stripped of her gold, factories and raw materials, with German-Italian armies camped on her soil—was given today in unconfirmed reports of the "Axis peace" terms dictated by Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini.

Authorized Nazis in Berlin emphasized that the German-Italian price for an armistice are not open to negotiation. They must be accepted or rejected as they stand.

The official Italian news agency said Hitler demanded capitulation "pure and simple"—apparently meaning unconditional surrender.

While the details remained a secret, Bordeaux reported that French and German negotiators would meet at Madrid at the residence of Generalissimo Francisco Franco of Spain.

The French radio said Germany notified France today that she would disclose her peace terms only to a special plenipotentiary. President Albert Lebrun immediately appointed an envoy to meet the Axis negotiators.

Fascists in Rome warned that French rejection of the Munich terms would unleash a swift "final assault" by the combined German-Italian armies—now nearing a junction near the south Swiss border—to crush France to the ground.

The British expeditionary force has now been withdrawn from France, London reported, and will devote itself to the "one task" of home defense. About 1,250,000 soldiers are under arms to guard against the imminently-expected Nazi invasion.

Reports from Berlin said German troops, driving past France's great trans-Atlantic port of Cherbourg, had reached within 32 miles of Brest.

Other Nazi columns, the reports said, captured Nancy, rich French manufacturing city and former capital of Lorraine province, which lies south of Metz, and thrust a spearhead toward Lyon. The latter is almost directly opposite the Italian-Swiss border and would afford a nearby junction for Italian and German armies.

The French high command, however, insisted that despite fierce new attacks in all sectors, the Germans had made no important new advances during the night.

Berlin asserted that half of France is now in German hands, with the invading armies rapidly fanning out to the south.

Pope Pius XII appealed to Italians to be generous and spoke sorrowly of "forces of error and deception."

At the same time, the Fascist editor, Virginio Gayda, often called Mussolini's mouthpiece, declared Italy can see "no reason to show pity for France in the present case."

Diplomatic circles in Madrid heard that the French already have accepted the Axis peace terms, involving unconditional capitulation, occupation of France until the war is over, and surrender of the French fleet.

This was apparently premature, however, since reports from Bordeaux said the French Premier Petain has not even received the Nazi-Fascist terms as yet.

Furthermore, the demand for surrender of the French fleet was believed futile, inasmuch as France's navy has been under British command since the outbreak of the war last September and in all likelihood—as admitted in Berlin—has been spirited off by the British.

VESSEL SUNK

Presence of German Mines In Pacific Revealed.

AUCKLAND, N. Z.—(AP)—Prime Minister Peter Fraser told parliament today that an enemy mine had sunk the Canadian-Australian Liner Niagara, which went down yesterday 20 miles off the New Zealand coast. This was the first official indication that German mines had been sown in Pacific waters.

As Fraser spoke, rescue ships and planes were aiding the 146 passengers and 203 crewmen of the vessel who took to their boats following the explosion which sank the liner. All were declared safe and proceeding here.

The Niagara was the first Allied merchant vessel lost in the Pacific since the beginning of the war.

NO PITY SHOWN

Italy Sees 'No Reason' For Sentimentality.

ROME—(AP)—Italy can see "no reason to show pity for France in the present case," the Fascist editor Virginio Gayda, who frequently speaks for Premier Mussolini, wrote today in Il Giornale D'Italia.

Reported Terms of Armistice

An International News Service dispatch from Rome today listed the following terms which a Rome newspaper, government-controlled, said were the basis of the Hitler-Mussolini peace demands on France:

1—Division of French territory between the German and Italian armies to prevent any further French aid to England.

2—French surrender to the Axis powers of all gold and foreign credits.

3—Surrender of the gold and credits of all countries which declared war on Germany, including Poland, Norway, Denmark, Holland and Belgium. (Editor's Note: Inclusion in this list of Denmark, which was occupied by German troops without resistance, was not explained.)

4—Surrender of all raw materials and militarily useful goods such as oil and metals.

5—Guarantees of immediate resumption of normal industrial activity in France.

6—A guarantee that France's entire economic, industrial, financial and commercial organization be included in the totalitarian blockade against England for duration of the war.

Legislature Speeds Action on $1,800,000 Relief Bill

ADJOURNMENT BY TOMORROW NIGHT SOUGHT

Republican Majority Overrides Democratic Efforts to Amend Measures.

BULLETIN

COLUMBUS—(AP)—The Ohio Chamber of Commerce today voiced opposition to increasing old age pension maximum allotments to $40 a month on grounds that Gov. John W. Bricker's proposal "constitutes the most serious threat to the solvency of the state treasury" since the Bigelow pension plan was voted down.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—The Ohio legislature, moving with amazing speed, pushed the $1,800,000 poor relief bill toward enactment today and sought to wind up the three-day-old special session by tomorrow night.

Six other measures in Gov. John W. Bricker's emergency program were rushed through the legislative process without change as the powerful Republican majority overrode Democratic attempts to amend.

The relief bill, already approved by the house, was almost certain to pass the senate today, as well as another proposal to release $800,000 in federal funds, now "frozen" in the state treasury, for aid to dependant children.

Meanwhile the house took up three measures, already passed by the senate. They were:

Separating the presidential and vice presidential candidates from the state ticket on the November ballot;

Appropriating $2,000,000 (half of it federal funds) to finance the addition of at least 14,500 persons to the old age pension rolls, subject to committee action this morning, and Authorizing local governments to fund poor relief deficits incurred before Jan. 1, 1940.

Two other bills were ready for initial hearings before house committees.

One, increasing the maximum old age pension award from $30 a month to $40, was reported to have encountered considerable opposition from business and industrial interests.

The other increases from $400 a year to $480 the maximum award for blind persons.

The Republican majority in the senate was bound by caucus to support the relief bill as approved by the house. It carries $1,460,000 in grants to local governments, supplementing the state's contribution for the last half of 1939, and an additional $333,333 to be made available in emergency loans.

The house Democratic leadership was defeated in an effort to add $1,202,405 to the bill. The vote was 41 for, 85 against.

Passage of the ballot-separation bill in the senate, 27 to 5, found both Democrats and Republicans approving the principle of the Massachusetts form of ballot, although a proposed amendment to adopt it was rejected.

Whereas the bill would separate only the national and state tickets, the Massachusetts ballot groups candidates by office instead of by politics.

Special Sessions of Legislature Prove Expensive

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Special sessions of the Ohio legislature come high, it appeared today from a bill appropriating $57,900 for expenses of the house of representatives.

The bill, passed by the house and sent to the senate for concurrence, provides $10,000 for salaries, $25,000 for wages, $3,000 for office supplies, $5,000 for the clerk's office, $6,000 for printing, $3,000 for communication and various smaller sums for other purposes.

House Clerk Otis Johnson explained that the $57,900 would cover other legislative expenses in addition to the brief special session. Senate Clerk Tom Bateman said he does not intend to ask for an additional appropriation.

Crash Injuries Fatal to Mansfield Woman

Up and Down THE STREET

One of Mother Nature's unusual displays, a moon rainbow, was on display last night in the northern sky about 9:30 and witnessed by many Mansfield people. The moon was bright, but there was lightning in the north and a sprinkle of rain. The moon shining through the rain threw a pale rainbow across the northern sky. For awhile it was white and luminous and many thought it was a display of Northern lights, but later the colors of the rainbow, very light and pale, could be distinguished.

When Tom Kalbfus, member of the advertising department at Westinghouse, left recently for a trip to Springfield, Mass., a group of friends offered to drive him to Galion to catch the train. Kalbfus accepted the offer, piled his traveling bag into the luggage compartment, and settled back in the car seat, his mind at ease. But when he and his friends got to Galion they found the lock on the luggage compartment had jammed. Not even the ingenuity of a garageman could open it. The approaching whistle of Kalbfus' train grew more insistent. Pretty soon tre conductor was shouting "Board!" Climbing on the departing train, Kalbfus grinned, "Never mind, I'll buy a toothbrush on the way."

ASHLAND CHIEF SCORES SHERIFF

Hits Lack of Co-operation as Latter Makes Three Arrests Within City Jurisdiction.

(By Staff Correspondent)

ASHLAND—Incensed at the action of Sheriff Dale Hammond in making three arrests within the city last night in connection with a bakery robbery last June 9, Acting Police Chief Miles D. McCarty declared today that the sheriff should have conferred with police before acting, and hinted at future consequences "if this kind of co-operation goes on."

The sheriff's arrests brought to four the number of persons being held in connection with the robbery of the Arthur Smith Pastry shop, where $200 was taken from a desk drawer about 10 p. m.

Sheriff Hammond countered to the police chief's charges by saying, "this office has handled the whole affair. After a week's investigation, we made the arrests last night. However, we have always co-operated with the police and there is no difficulty between our department and the police."

First arrest in the case was made a week ago by police, who took Fred Hostetter, alleged to be a paroled convict, into custody and charged him with parole violation. They later turned him over to the Ashland county parole officers.

Last night, Hammond arrested a man and his wife and another man in connection with the case, but said he would have no statement to make until he has questioned them. No charges have been placed against them.

It was learned, however, that the man and his wife, had been in the bakery earlier on the evening of the robbery, and are believed to have seen Smith put the money in the drawer. The sheriff gave no indication of how the second man might have been involved.

McCarty, asserting that police had been working steadily on the case and were planning to make an arrest as soon as they were sure of their evidence, contended that the sheriff should have consulted with them before making an arrest within the city limits.

CRESTLINE VET, 94, INSTALLED AS OHIO G. A. R. COMMANDER

Thomas Ridenour, 94, of Crestline, was installed today as commander of Ohio's rapidly diminishing ranks of Grand Army of The Republic.

Ridenour was elevated from his post of senior vice commander of the state at yesterday's session of the 74th annual encampment of G. A. R. and its auxiliary bodies held in Columbus.

Other officers elected were David B. Robbins, 94, of South Vienna, senior vice commander; John Grate, 95, of Atwater, junior vice commander; and the Rev. W. L. Hopper, 93, Columbus, renamed chaplain.

The Women's Relief Corps elected Mrs. Elizabeth Hartung of Toledo as state president; and Mrs. Jane Neff, Mansfield, as junior vice president. The Daughters of Union Veterans nominated without opposition, Mrs. Beatrice Vogel of Chillicothe as president, and Mrs. Frances Lewis of Warren as senior vice president.

Awaiting their "big event"—the annual parade—were 15 white-haired, stoop-shouldered veterans of the Civil war, all that represented Ohio's G. A. R. at the encampment.

The Crestline veteran who now commands the G. A. R. was a member of Company K, 182 O. V. I. He marched under Gen. Sherman's command from "Atlanta to the sea" and was wounded at Chickamauga.

It has been several years since Mansfield had a G. A. R. man at the annual meeting, but a number of members of auxiliary bodies from here are attending.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Bette Davis never will take any academy awards for murder—her heart is just not in it.

She spent a whole day at it and still wasn't sold on homicide. All she had to do was pump lead into a fellow who had done her wrong.

Miss Davis was dressed, you might say, to kill . . . very feminine and fragile in a long, floaty lavender dinner gown, her only costume jewelry her smoking, blazing gat and the metallic glint in her eye.

Toward the end of the day, after some 17 "takes," she was plum tuckered out.

Miss Davis, to begin with, had left no doubt as to her stand on murder and firearms in general. "I," she admitted to Director William Wyler, "am a Fourth of July girl—the kind who runs to hide when the fireworks go off. I'm scared to death of 'em."

* * *

The business at hand was the opening sequence of "The Letter." The late Jeanne Eagles made a highly successful talkie of it a decade ago. The art department had turned a whole stage into a tropical rubber plantation, bathed in moonlight. There was no moon, but the set dressers had plenty of paint. They painted the brown earthen "floor" with heavy black shadows, infinitely careful that a palm tree should not cast a shadow like a rubber tree's, and vice versa. They shadowed everything, the native huts, the shrubs, the old oaken bucket at the well. If the rubber trees, authentically ringed and tapped to yield (from concealed cans) a milky fluid, were really magnolias that certainly was not the camera's business.

The camera on a boom covered most of the set for the atmospheric, sinister beginning. It opened with a shot of the flowing "rubber," withdrew to peek into a native hut or two, paused briefly at a white cockatoo (which said "Oh, hello!" the first time and sent them back for a new start) and then panned to the closed door of the big thatch-roof house.

As the camera approached, unseen, Miss D's first shot rang out. The door opened, and the man who done her wrong (David Newell) staggered out, followed by One-Gun Davis. He staggered to the porch column, leaned against it, received five more shots in quick succession, and fell down face first in the gravel walk—out of the scene, out of the picture.

* * *

Somewhere between the first and twelfth "takes" of this intimate gun-play, Mr. Newell had to be reprieved briefly to have his sides and chest taped for strained muscles, but he kept on dying bravely—as bravely as Miss D kept on shooting. Miss D, who doesn't approve of murder anyway, had some little trouble acting like an impassioned killer. Once she cried, with bravado, "I'm beginning to enjoy this." It didn't sound convincing. But Miss D is an actress, and Art won out over Fear.

Mr. Newell, somewhat bruised at the end of the day, said, "It is a pleasure to fall for Miss Davis."

Say Trade Cartel Would Cost U. S. $250,000,000

PAN-AMERICAN PACT PLANNED AGAINST NAZIS

United States Would Supply Money to Operate Huge Commercial Machine.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Adoption of President Roosevelt's proposed pan-American trade cartel probably would cost the United States treasury between $250,000,000 and $500,000,000 a year, administration officials frankly admitted today.

When the ambitious trade scheme is offered to congress and to the 20 other American republics, however, the huge expenditure will be justified as vitally necessary if economic penetration of the western hemisphere by Nazi Germany and Fascist Italy is to be effectively stopped. A meeting at Havana, Cuba, at which pan-America would be asked to pass on the proposal, is being considered.

The plan, which envisages a gigantic inter-American trading corporation equipped to buy up and control all exportable surpluses in North and South America, was being whipped into final form today by Secretary of State Hull, Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and Secretary of Commerce Hopkins.

As it began to take definite form, observers accepted the proposal as a bold move by President Roosevelt to subsidize the trade of all the Americas and chase Nazi-Fascist influence back to Europe.

"It is purely a matter of hemispherical defense, to which we are irrevocably committed under the Monroe doctrine," declared one interested official. "At the outset at least the trade cartel may cost us from a quarter billion to half a billion dollars a year—but that would be no more than the cost and maintenance of several battleships that probably otherwise would be needed in defending our sister republics from fifth column activities."

It will be at least another 24 hours before the cabinet committee completes its report and recommendations for submission to the president. Tentatively, however, it is being suggested that an inter-American trading corporation be set up under a 10-man board of directors, seven of whom would be U. S. citizens in consideration of the fact this country will put up all the money.

Based on an average of the last four years, the corporation would be required to purchase annually about $1,000,000,000 worth of Central and South American exportable surpluses. Some of these foodstuffs and raw materials could be sold abroad profitably. Some could be sold at a loss. Some would have to be held indefinitely, or even dumped into the ocean.

The big item, as administration economists see it, is that the pan-American countries would be freed from the blocked-mark and barter system of trade which Chancellor Hitler was building up so successfully before he went to war.

Before the European war started, it was pointed out, Germany had dislodged Great Britain in South American markets and stood second only to the United States.

Diplomatic channels report that in recent weeks Nazi salesmen have been rather significantly suggesting to certain South American governments that it might be to their advantage to trade with Germany in view of the way the European war is going and the prospect that Herr Hitler may emerge with a huge navy.

LOSES SUIT FOR COMPENSATION

Mansfielder's Action to Share In State Fund Ruled Out by Court.

A directed verdict for the Ohio Industrial commisison, defendant in an action brought in behalf of Clarence Kerr of Mansfield, was handed down Tuesday afternoon by Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston.

After the evidence was heard, state counsel representing the Industrial commission made a motion for the directed verdict and Judge Huston upheld it. Petit jurors who heard the evidence signed the verdict.

Kerr sought to share in industrial compensation payments for injures he allegedly received two years ago while employed by the Bissman company, Mansfield. The action was filed after the Industrial commission denied his claims, contending that his physical condition was not the result of his injuries.

ELEVEN KILLED IN AIR RAIDS OVER ENGLAND

In London there was gratification over the success of the Royal Aid Force in the shooting down of seven of the bombers, although it was obvious that in this assault the Germans probably used the largest number of bombers to date against Britain.

While no raiders succeeded in reaching London, the rattle of machine gun fire mingled with the distant booming of anti-aircraft guns was plainly audible from the directions of the mouth of the River Thames and from the eastern outskirts of the capital.

The secretary of a hospital in the Thames estuary area said:

"For more than an hour the whistle of bombs screaming in the air and the crash of repeated detonations mingled with the roar of planes and the thud of anti-aircraft fire."

Another eye-witness declared: "The noise was terrific and at first pretty frightening, but we soon got accustomed to it."

In many areas townsfolk spent nearly four hours in air shelters before the all clear signal was given.

Meanwhile, evacuation of the last British troops from France was completed early today under harrowing conditions that rivaled, on a smaller scale, the evacuation of Flanders.

Worn and hungry, the last of the B. E. F. arrived in vessels of all descriptions at south and west coast ports after being subjected to bombing by German planes which attacked in waves of 60 or 100 at a time.

The soldiers said that in some instances "fifth columnists" disguised in British uniforms had sought to delay the embarkations from France. One officer, describing German tank attacks, declared:

"We just couldn't stand up to it. The French lost heart as soon as they heard Paris had fallen."

At the same time, it was authoritatively confirmed that the British expeditionary force has now been completely withdrawn from France. The troops, it was said, were able to bring back vast quantities of guns and stores "although it was impossible to remove in a few days the accumulation of reserves built up over months."

ARMY SERVICE PRESENTS NEW PARTY PROBLEM

Compulsory Training Hit by Glenn Frank as Typical Of New Deal.

(By Associated Press)

PHILADELPHIA — President Roosevelt's proposal for compulsory national service presented a new problem today for the Republican resolutions committee, already endeavoring to write a platform plank expressing the party's viewpoint on foreign relations.

This and a speech in which John L. Lewis of the CIO spoke praisingly, and perhaps significantly, of Herbert Hoover, provided the vanguard of next week's national convention with an abundance of discussion.

Glenn Frank, chairman of the committee which wrote a party program last winter, said Mr. Roosevelt's suggestion conformed to the trend of New Deal philosophy.

"The heart of the New Deal," he said, "is in an approach to a conscripted life."

David Ingalls, campaign manager for Senator Taft of Ohio, bluntly asked "which totalitarian model has he in mind, Russian or German?"

Alf M. Landon, the 1936 nominee, who was appointed chairman of the subcommittee on national defense and foreign affairs late yesterday, said the president was using "weasel words," and added that he wanted to see more exactly what Mr. Roosevelt had in mind.

"It is typical of the New Deal," he said, "that this subject developed at a White House press conference and was not embodied in a message to congress."

The resolutions committee set aside the entire day for open hearings at which the representatives of numerous organizations were allotted speaking time.

Among them were Lewis, William Green of the AFL, Noel-Sargent of the National Association of Manufacturers, L. J. Taber of the National Grange and Edward O'Neil of the Farm Bureau Federation.

Former Sen. George Wharton Pepper of Pennsylvania was named chairman of the important drafting committee which will act as a clearing house for sub-committee recommendations.

Lewis' speech was delivered here last night before the national association for the advancement of colored people.

"Mr. Roosevelt made depression and unemployment a chronic fact in American life," Lewis said. "It was a slogan of the 1932 presidential election that Herbert Hoover was responsible for that depression. As a simple matter of justice, let me say here and now that the workers of the United States realize that he had nothing whatever to do with it. It was laid on his doorstep when he came to the White House. It is only the self-seeking politicians that blame Mr. Hoover."

FLOORING WORN, PLAN NEW ONE FOR VIADUCT

Repairs Costing $4,000 Needed For Mulberry Street Span; No Immediate Danger.

Weakened by more than 30 years of wear, South Mulberry street viaduct is in need of extensive repairs that will cost the city $4,000, council's street and finance committees were informed today.

Council authorized an appropriation of $500 early last month to finance repair of the structure when it was learned that the subflooring of the bridge had loosened and threatened to damage main supports.

The funds were to make temporary repairs that were intended to strengthen the flooring and prevent any possible chance of immediate damage to the supports.

City Engineer W. C. Statler said today that a plan to place stirrups on the under side of the bridge flooring to tighten the surface base had been unsuccessful and that a complete new sub-flooring was needed.

Constant flow of vehicular traffic over the structure across Ritter's Run, he said, caused a wave in the thrust supports and unless it is repaired would result in serious damage to the bridge.

He pointed out however, that the span was still safe for heavy traffic and that there was no immediate danger from structural failure.

He estimated that cost of laying the sub-flooring and resurfacing the roadway would cost $4,000.

The present heavy plank subbase was put down about 12 years ago while the roadway was resurfaced about four years ago. The asphalt pavement has, however, already shown strains from wear and will be in need of extensive repairs within another year, Statler predicted.

ASKS BIDS FOR NEW MANSFIELD B. & O. STATION

Railroad Line Gets Ready to Award Contract; Pennsy Depot Progresses.

The Baltimore and Ohio railroad company today had called for bids on the construction of the new $10,500 passenger depot to be built in Mansfield, construction starting July 10.

H. H. Harsh, of Newark, division superintendent, said that the construction contract would probably be awarded late this month.

The new structure will be located on a site, already surveyed, just west of the present old structure on North Mulberry street.

Plans call for completion of the new station this summer. When the station is finished, the present building will be torn down and the grounds graded.

Meanwhile the Pennsylvania railroad's $75,000 rehabilitation program, which includes the construction of a subway and track platform, continued to show progress. It will be finished within the next few months.

Officials of the road said concrete work on the subway and shelter was almost completed. Carpenters within the next few days will start construction of the woodwork.

When completed, a new system of lights, outside and inside the present building will be installed.

Mother Plays, Child Identifies Chords

Mrs. Fred M. Bushnell is accompanist for her daughter, Janey, when the youthful musician identifies chords and harmonic combinations "sight unseen." Janey is a composer as well as a pianist.

• • • • •

DISTINGUISHING MUSIC CHORDS EASY FOR MANSFIELD GIRL, 7

It's a rare child that can distinguish a "diminished ninth" from a "dominating ninth" in harmonic chords, but Janey Bushnell, 7, can turn the trick with neatness and dispatch.

Janey is the talented daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred M. Bushnell, 770 West Fourth street, and from here it looks like a musical career for the little girl with real golden curls and whimsical smile.

"Perfect pitch" is something that you are born with, or you aren't. In other words you can't acquire it with all the training in the world if you aren't born with it. It does require cultivation, however. Janey was born with it and her musical training will develop it

She has been studying piano only a year and a half but she has the almost uncanny faculty of identifying chords and combinations of tones as soon as she hears them. Standing with her back to the piano, she can tell in an instant any one of the minor, major, diminished or dominating chords.

She loves the piano, and, as an observer said of her after the Marie Porterfield student recital recently, seems to brood over the keys as she plays.

Janey composes music naturally and simply, and her compositions show intelligence and musical concept. When the annual contests for Junior Music clubs of the state were held in Youngstown in March, Janey's little compositions won first place. She also won second place in piano work.

Winners in the annual contests are presented at the meeting each year of the Federation of Music clubs of Ohio, which was why Janey went to Cincinnati in the spring. At that meeting her compositions won considerable attention because of their own appeal and because of the age of the very youthful composer.

She memorizes easily and it is practically no trick at all for her to transpose from one key to another.

She has written three little songs and sometimes she sings them to herself as she sits at the piano and plays her own accompaniment.

Janey, who is pretty shy for a modern miss, was a first grade student at Western avenue school this past year. Her vacation from studies will not include her music this summer, for of her own choice she prefers to continue her lessons and practice.

Faced with a July 15 deadline for filing the city budget with the county budget commission, council's finance committee will meet tomorrow night to draft the 1941 municipal budget.

A rough draft of the 1941 departmental requests compiled by the city administration calls for $373,785 for general operating expenses next year.

Mayor William J. Locke said a meeting of city officials with the finance committee was scheduled for tomorrow night at which time estimates will be whipped into shape.

It is expected that the draft will be subject to extensive paring before it goes to council for approval. As prepared, the request totals approximately $70,000 more than the 1940 appropriations.

The bill must be approved by council and filed with the county budget commission before July 15.

BUC OFFICE IN CITY SET TO AID DEFENSE PLAN

Mansfield Headquarters to Supply Men For Industries Work on U. S. Orders.

The Mansfield district office of the state Bureau of Unemployment Compensation was geared today to aid industrialists in the three-county area of Richland, Ashland and Morrow counties to fill federal government orders for national defense requirements.

C. W. Handley, branch manager, said the plan was part of a statewide program worked out by C. H. Atkinson, administrator of the Ohio bureau, and the social security board, whereby unemployment offices will serve as employment centers to fill demands of Ohio factories executing army and navy contracts.

He explained that as soon as a contract is awarded an Ohio firm the service branch will notify the civil service commission. The commission, in turn, will relay the information to the Ohio bureau which has set up a plan to notify the office nearest the manufacturer.

The duty of the branch office, Handley added, will be to offer service to the company, furnishing detailed information concerning the number of men available to handle the jobs opened up by the army or navy contract.

The Mansfield office which offers this service to manufacturers in Richland, Ashland and Morrow counties, is one of the 52 district headquarters set up in the state to serve the 88 counties.

Pytlak Quits Tribe Again, Goes Home Claiming Illness

Loss of Great Player Termed Heartbreaking

Hit By Pitched Ball, Medwick Lands In Hospital As Loop Race Enters Crucial Stage.

By JUDSON BAILEY, Associated Press Sports Writer.

JOSEPH (MUSCLES) MEDWICK, the big batter and leg man who was supposed to bring the Brooklyn Dodgers a pennant, is in a hospital today and the question is whether he took the Dodgers' championship chance with him.

Medwick suffered a concussion of the brain yesterday when hit by one of Bob Bowman's pitches in the first inning of a game which the St Louis Cardinals ultimately won 7-5 in 11 innings. He's expected to be out of the lineup at least three weeks.

Head injuries are often very damaging. Jake Powell of the Yankees was hurt just before the season started and never has played a game, although's he's back with the club for some time

* * *

Loss of a player as valuable as Medwick is nothing less than heart-breaking to a club in the heat of a pennant chase.

* * *

The Dodgers' defeat yesterday was the fourth straight Their plight might be worse except that their National league rivals seem to have chosen this exact time for an attack of the staggers

Bucky Walters, who won nine games in a row at the start of the season, was beaten for the fourth time in a row last night as the Phillies pounced upon the Cincinnati Reds 3-1.

The third-place New York Giants got a 6-1 going over by the Chicago Cubs in a starlight session in New York. Jake Mooty, Chicago's little freshman right-hander, held the Giants to six hits

* * *

The six-game winning streak of the Boston Red Sox finally was snapped at St. Louis in a motion picture finish that starred John Berardino. He came to bat in the tenth inning with the score tied and the bases loaded—and hit a home run for the Browns' 11-7 triumph.

* * *

Lefty Al Smith obtained his seventh victory against one defeat as the Cleveland Indians nosed out the Washington Senators 2-1.

The New York Yankees were set back for the third straight time as the Chicago White Sox ended a five-game losing streak of their own, 5-3, behind the six-hit hurling of Southpaw Ed Smith

Hit By Pitcher

Joe Medwick, $200,000 Brooklyn Muscle Man, was reported today to be resting easily in Caledonian hospital, N. Y. Medwisk was hit yesterday on the head by a hard-pitched ball by Pitcher Bob Newman of the Cards. Doctors say the Brooklyn star will be out of the lineup for at least three weeks.

Braves Tackle Fremont

Laurila Will Face Green Sox Tonight; Last Nights Contest Rained Out.

FIGHTING to cut down the lead held by the pace-making Findlay Oilers, the Mansfield Braves travel to Fremont today to meet the Green Sox under the floodlights tonight.

With their scheduled contest against Fostoria called off because of wet grounds at the Fairground last night, the Braves will send George Laurila to the hill tonight. Laurila will be out to mark up his third win.

* * *

Mansfield didn't lose any ground in the circuit race last night as rain and wet grounds forced postponement of the Lima-Tiffin and Findlay-Fremont contests.

* * *

Manager Dewey Stover and his Warriors are five and a half games out of first place, but believe they can whittle down the advantage held by the leaders.

The Braves come back to the Fairground to clash with Fremont under the arcs before a "Tappan Stove" crowd at 8.15 p m Thursday. Either Alex Radomuis or Tony Scotti will handle the mound assignment.

Wins 'Ghost' Regatta

Washington Beat Navy by Six Lengths as Annual Race Comes Off In Dark.

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK — (INS) — The first "black-out" or "ghost" regatta in the 43 year history of intercollegiate rowing was held on the Hudson last night and 100,000 of us are taking the results on faith today.

* * *

Of course, we all know that Cornell beat Princeton, Syracuse and Columbia in the freshman because that one one rowed in comparative daylight and we could see for ourselves. But you'll have to take the officials' word for it that Washington won both the Jayvee and varsity races because those were run in the dark with the lights twinkling brightly along both banks of the river.

* * *

The fun began just after the freshman race when a strong headwind began to kick up a ground swell that would have made things tough for an ocean-going tug

Six crews lined up at the start, the guns barked and within five minutes four of those shells sank and the other two were about to founder when coast guard cutters raced madly up the course to call the whole thing off.

* * *

Then came a wait of four hours while the brass hats held off until the wind died down and the varsity crews were sent away in the growing darkness.

* * *

Syracuse—they tell us—led for a couple of miles and then Cornell and Washington took over in a neck and neck duel to the finish with the westerners getting the verdict. Although it was not pitch dark, it was decided to try the Jayvee race again and only the official boat, with its headlights on the crews knew that Washington beat Navy by six lengths.

Walker Gets 21st Win

Gains Decision Over Texan In Last Night's Bout.

COLUMBUS—(UP)—Jack (Buddy) Walker, rugged Columbus Negro heavyweight, marked up his 21st victory in 22 bouts today after winning a decision over Jack Wofford, Dallas, Tex, whom he sent to the canvas four times in 10 rounds.

* * *

The tough Texan was floored last night for the count of nine in the second, twice in the fourth, and in the ninth rounds by Walker's hard lefts and rights, but towards the end of the contest he appeared to be in better condition than the victor.

Young Howdy, 127, of Kenton took a terrific pounding from Joe Palmo, 126, Cincinnati, before he was knocked out in the fourth round.

Al Smith Edges Nats, 2-1, In Stadium Tilt

Johnny Allen Goes to Mound Today to Try for Second Victory Over Washington.

CLEVELAND—(UP)—The Cleveland Indians, still recovering from their three-day dissension period in which the removal of Manager Oscar Vitt was demanded, were confronted with another problem today when it was revealed that Catcher Frankie Pytlak had returned to his home in Buffalo, N. Y., without permission.

Pytlak first left the team in Boston over a week ago Vitt explained his absence by saying that the catcher returned to Cleveland to answer a law suit. The existence of such a suit was denied by club officials last night.

"He returned to Cleveland at that time saying he was ill," Vice President C C Slapnicka said. "We sent him to Dr Edward Castle and also the Cleveland Clinic for a complete examination All of the doctors reported him in good health

Despite the reports and the request that he remain here, Pytlak left with the statement that he "wanted to see a doctor in Buffalo."

"If he does not return or signify his intention of returning in a couple of days," Slapnicka said, "I'm afraid we will be forced to take up the matter with American League headquarters."

It was interpreted as meaning that Pytlak, who had been suspended in the spring during a hold-out campaign, would be suspended again.

Despite the Pytlak problem and the rumpus in the Cleveland teepee, the Indians are continuing to win games Last night before 12,466 fans, Veteran Al Smith pitched five-hit ball against Washington as the Tribesmen won their fifth game in six starts.

* * *

The 2 to 1 victory for Cleveland came in the ninth inning when Roy Weatherly doubled and Rollie Hemsley singled for the second Indian score. According to percentages, the Tribe went into second place along with Detroit, but the Vittmen are only a game and a half behind Boston.

* * *

Johny Allen tried for his fourth victory today and had as hurling opposition, Ken Chase of the Senators.

Local Athletes Get Day Off—Rain

Mansfield's athletes got a day off yesterday, as the city's hardest rain this year descended on the city.

The Braves and the Fostoria club were scheduled to present a "Ladies' Night" feature but wet grounds caused officials to call the event off. All local softball games in the city suffered the same fate, as did the Tuesday matches in The News-Journal Class "A" golf league.

Joe In Good Shape

Experts Say He's In Best Condition He Has Ever Been In Before a Fight.

By LAWTON CARVER

NEW YORK — (INS) — Fellowfighters, experts, innocent bystanders and his own handlers today pronounced Joe Louis in as fine condition as he has ever attained for one of his periodical meat-chopping carnivals. The unanimity of opinion was arrived at finally as a result of his final workout for defense of his world heavyweight championship against Arturo Godoy tomorrow night. Until now there had been a marked tendency to find surprisingly numerous reasons for old J. Dark Destroyer's possible defeat.

* * *

Quite obviously he had been under wraps before the public due to lagging ticket sales. The one way to build up the fight was to build Louis down by holding him back in his training. When they let him go yesterday in his last boxing drill, he flattened one sparring partner—flattened him out cold—and belabored another with all the enthusiasm gathering within him and damned up ever since he opened his Greenwood Lake camp.

* * *

We suggested the other day that he looked great to us despite conflicting testimony on the proposition, and we are sure now that he is ready, what with every one suddenly shouting to the skies that he was never better. Yesterday's workout, when he went in there levelling, was the clincher. Had he done so well all along the odds on him would be about 10 to 1, instead of 5 to 1 as they are now, and the probable gate would be about half the expected "$200,000." We quote that figure because it is Promoter Mike Jacobs' estimate. We think it will be much less.

* * *

Godoy has done his best up at Carmel, N. Y., to go through the motions of a fighter in training, but couldn't and can't be overly impressive because he couldn't and can't fight much and, after all, is just a tough, game clown. If he could punch at all he would have only a remote chance. As it is he will be lucky to go the limit the again.

* * *

In any case, the fight itself can be regarded largely as just another one of those Louis defenses in which the main question to be settled is not who will win, but whether his opponent will be able to stay with him through the 15 rounds.

SPORTS PARADE

By HENRY McLEMORE
(UP Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK—To the friends and to the relatives of the Washington crew, I send flowers and sympathy.

The Washington crew won at Poughkeepsie yesterday, thereby proving itself the strongest-backed, weakest-minded octet of young men in the nation.

It is not often that I wait until an event is finished to criticise the victor. But in rowing, one must wait until he knows which boatload of flesh is tops in marine flagellation. In this particular event, it was necessary for one to wait almost until noon today to determine this fact. For the Poughkeepsie crews took off in darkness, rowed almost all night, and finished only slightly before dawn.

A Poughkeepsie oarsman is the most non-understandable of all athlettes. A good college baseball player gets a chance with the New York Yankees. A good football player gets a chance with the New York Giants or the Green Bay Packers or some other team in one of the professional leagues. A good tennis player has every right to expect to chisel a living after—as well as during—his college years.

But an oarsman has no hope of doing anything except earning a sweater that he can't wear to work anyway.

As a matter of fact, families are a bit ashamed to admit the presence of an oarsman.

It takes much more than a strong back to become a true oarsman It requires the sort of mind and the sort of muscle that isn't good enough to stand by itself. Individualism has no part in rowing. There is no such thing as a standout oarsman.

* * *

Now let's get brutal for a moment. Ten years of writing sports has taught me that the average athlete is something that you wouldn't welcome in case of invasion by burglars. That is, they are strong of arm but weak of cerebellum, as I've been trying to intimate for the past 7 paragraphs. Of all the athletes I've met, crew men are the worst.

You have to be a man with absolutely no imagination to work that hard for nothing.

All I've tried to say in these 500 words I can say in two sentences:

The world can't count on oarsmen to solve its problems. Oarsmen are big, have crew hair cuts and as far as I know need a coxswain to tell them when its time to take a stroke.

Knock on 1st Place's Door

Charleston Scores 7- 1 Victory Over Youngstown.

CHARLESTON, W. Va. —(AP)— Charleston's Senators, who were in last place in the Middle Atlantic league on June 1, were knocking at the door to first place today.

* * *

Last night's 7 to 1 victory over Youngstown left the Senators only a game and a half behind the league-leading Canton, held idle by rain at Akron.

* * *

The Dayton Wings handed the Portsmouth Red Birds their fourth straight loss. 10 to 4, at Portsmouth. Mannie Fernandez, Datyon catcher, and Joe Schmidt, Portsmouth third sacker, each homered with two on. The win elevated Dayton to fourth place above Akron.

Today's schedule: Youngstown at Charleston, Dayton at Portsmouth, Canton at Akron.

Heroes and Goats

(By International News Service)

HEROES — Johnny Berardino St Louis outfielder, whose tenth inning homer with the bases filled enabled the Browns to defeat the league-leading Boston Red Sox, Edgar Smith, Chicago pitcher, who twirled a six-hitter as White Sox defeated the Yankees

GOATS — Johnny Hudson, Brooklyn infielder whose wild heave allowed the Cardinals to score the winning run in the eleventh. Jim Bagby, Boston pitcher, who gave up two walks, a double and a home run without retiring a man as the Red Sox lost in the tenth.

SAME NAME

SPRINGVILLE, Utah — (UP) — Taylor Burt and Burt Taylor became aware of the similarity of their names when they went to work for the same service station here.

The two men's identities are even more complicated by the fact that they recently purchased homes side by side. Both are married and have two children.

NEW CAR SALES 62 PER CENT UP OVER LAST YEAR

Chamber of Commerce Survey Shows 1,604 Sold in First Five Months of 1940.

Paced by a 62 per cent gain in new automobile sales, Mansfield business, with two exceptions, during the first five months of 1940, has shown substantial increases over the corresponding period in 1939, the Chamber of Commerce monthly business review revealed today.

Commercial and industrial gains for the five-month period this year ranged from a three per cent gain in mercantile employment to 62.1 per cent in auto sales.

Only postal receipts and building valuations were under the 1939 mark. New building dropped 57 per cent, due chiefly to a $1,000,000 school construction program started early last year. Total valuations this year were listed at $656,430 as compared to $1,333,351 during the first five months of 1939.

Postal receipts dropped 3.8 per cent, falling from $165,738 in 1939 to 159,385 for the first five months of this year.

A total of 515 more new automobiles have been sold in Mansfield so far this year, sales bouncing up to 1,604 cars as against a five month total in 1939 of 1,089 machines.

Bank clearings which totaled $38,200,000 were up 12 per cent. At the end of May last year the total was $34,482,000.

More Ride Buses.

The chamber's report showed that the Mansfield Rapid Transit company carried a total of 913,718 paid passengers so far this year, an increase of 18.3 per cent over last year's five month total of last year's five month total of 772,121.

Carloadings, reflecting improved industrial conditions showed a 17.7 gain. Total loadings during the first five months of this year were listed at 17,869 as against 15,177 last year.

Richland county's prepaid sales tax receipts were up 15.6 per cent totaling $220,320 as compared to $192,238 for the same period a year ago.

Industrial employment showed an increase of 7.3 per cent and mercantile employment a gain of three per cent, with a total of 11,194 persons employed in Mansfield as against 10,808 a year ago.

If THERE WERE A BETTER REGULAR-PRICED GASOLINE IN OHIO THAN SOHIO X-70

...we'd know about it!

...we'd know about it because we constantly test every gasoline in Ohio against SOHIO X-70. If there were a better gasoline at "regular" price, one of our 250,000 tests a year would soon show it up.

To keep SOHIO X-70 constantly out in front, Standard Oil research men have boosted its quality 22 times since 1935—five times in the last year alone! It has earned the title, "the Progressive gasoline."

These constant improvements and constant tests are your assurance—and ours—that no other gasoline at the price exceeds SOHIO X-70 in mileage, pickup, power and anti-knock. Don't wait any longer—try it!

War Stocks Vary on Hopes And Fears of French Peace Terms.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Rails gave anchorage to an unsteady market today while war stocks varied with traders' hopes and fears concerning the outcome of France's capitulation.

Pending announcement of peace terms, operators carried on only "testing" operations, causing movements of only fractions.

Holding firm or moving a bit ahead are such leaders as Chesapeake & Ohio, Great Northern preferred, Southern Railway, Republic, Youngstown, U. S. Rubber, Sears Roebuck, Caterpillar, Boeing, Westinghouse, American Telephone and Loft. Backward were Standard Oil of N. J., Eastman, American Can and United Aircraft.

Commodities and bonds were irregular. Italian Liens dropped sharply. Scrap copper was reduced ⅛ cent a pound.

Market sources said Great Britain was inquiring for American canned food to replace canned imports from Italy.

German bombers killed at least 12 British civilians and injured 13 in widespread raids during the night which may have raised the curtain on the expected "battle for England."

The British announced officially that seven of the estimated 100 invading aircraft were shot down by British fighters and anti-aircraft batteries which were in action all the way from the teeming Thames estuary to the Yorkshire coast.

"No severe damage was done to any military objective" by the Germans, it was announced.

Britain's faltering Allies, the French, fought on in the waning but still deadly battle of France while they waited to hear the peace terms which Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini determined in a secret meeting at Munich.

France's premier, Marshal Henri Philippe Petain, and Generalissimo Maxime Weygand ordered their worn poilus to fight on, even though the front was cut to shreds and the Germans were racing southward.

The French communique last night admitted that violent enemy action was progressing deep in Normandy and Britanny, with advanced German detachments already in Cherbourg and Rennes.

This drive apparently was aimed at cutting off the two peninsulas of Normandy and Britanny which jut out toward England. If successful, it would envelop the port of Brest, where many American soldiers landed in the World war.

The Spanish government radio reported many planes, presumably French, had been seen flying over the Mediterranean toward Africa.

The European avalanche of war had its forceful effects in the United States. President Roosevelt asserted that the country undoubtedly would come to some form of government service for every boy in the land, though not necessarily military service in the strict sense.

The house naval committee speedily and unanimously recommended authorization of a $4,000,000,000 expansion of the United States fleet, which would permit construction of 200 more warships and give this country the greatest navy of the world.

In Canada, Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King called for quick legislative action in passing the government's compulsory service bill conscripting manpower and resources for war duty.

"There is an emergency position of a very grave character," he said.

Russian Troops Occupy All Large Baltic Towns

BULLETIN

LONDON—(INS)—Discovery of a far-reaching German plot against Soviet Russia in the Baltic states and Finland compelled the U. S. S. R. to establish military control over Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia, an authoritative Soviet spokesman told International News Service today.

(By Associated Press)

STOCKHOLM—Soviet Russian artillery, infantry and cavalry units escorted by numerous squadrons of bombing planes and reinforced by tank and armored car detachments were reported today to have occupied all large towns in Lithuania, Estonia and Latvia.

The Red army also posted guards at railway stations and bridges while negotiations continued for establishment of pro-Soviet governments in the three little Baltic states with whom the Soviet Union is strongly "implementing" her mutual assistance pacts of last fall.

These reports came from correspondents of the Stockholm newspapers Aftonbladet and Tidningen in Riga, Latvia, and Kaunas, Lithuania. There were also rumors of German troop movements in East Prussia, facing expanding Baltic footholds, but they could not be substantiated.

Reliable diplomatic circles, however, say that the Germans have been transporting new forces to Norway. One interpretation of this could be a plan of attack on the British Isles.

The first indications of possible German intentions to make Norway into a protectorate were seen in presumably inspired editorials in Oslo newspapers which criticized King Haakon and Crown Prince Olaf for leaving Norway.

Disposition of Syria to Determine Turkish War Stand

ANKARA—(INS)—Official Turkish quarters revealed today that Turkey might enter the European war on the side of Britain and with the approval of Soviet Russia if French-controlled Syria should be ceded to Italy.

It was stressed that Turkey's future policy depends upon the attitude of Russia, regarding which considerable doubt still prevails at Ankara.

Informed quarters stated, however, that disposition of Syria is a matter of great importance to Turkey.

BITTER: French Turn Against Premiers Who Conducted War

By ROBERT OKIN

PARIS—(Delayed)—By Courier to Aachen and Telephone to Berlin)—(AP)—Paris is beginning a new life under German occupation as public services resume operation and some phases of the fallen capital's daily activity return to normal.

Current opinion as expressed publicly now is strongly Rightist and bitter against former Premier Paul Reynaud who resigned Sunday as the government prepared to seek a peace, and against Edouard Daladier who was premier when France declared war against Germany.

The two principal organs of opinion allowed to resume publication are the Rightist newspaper Le Matin and the semi-Fascist Victoire.

Three German officials who knew Paris before the war are now in important posts of the occupying forces.

They are Capt. von Grote who was Paris director of DNB, the German news service, Otto Abetz, husband of a French woman, who was expelled as a Nazi agent by the French June 29, 1939 and Dr. Achenbach, secretary of the German embassy in Paris.

Captain von Grote now is in charge of governmental bureaus, and Abetz and Achenbach are associated with him. The military forces in Paris are commanded by Gen. von Studnitz.

Postal services were restored today in the Paris department of Seine and it was announced that the Comedie Francaise, the famous state theater will resume Saturday. The local telephone never was interrupted by the occupation.

Telegraph facilities, at least within the area occupied by Germans, were expected to reopen shortly.

The return of mail service was a welcome thing to French families, many of whom have been scattered throughout France by refugee movements or by retreat before the enemy.

Stray dogs left by the evacuees have caused the municipality much concern since many cases of dog bites have been reported. The Pasteur Institute, which produces protective serums has functioned through the occupation as have government and private hospitals.

Hitler, Mussolini Review Troops, Set Armistice Terms

Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler and Premier Benito Mussolini marched down a street in Munich yesterday, reviewing a detachment of crack German guard troops. Then they went to the Fuehrer house, where they agreed on the terms of an armistice with France. The terms were said to call for complete capitulation of the once proud republic.

JAPAN DEMANDS FRENCH ACTION

Threatens 'Necessary Measures' to Halt Arms Shipment From Indo-China.

BULLETIN

TOKYO—(AP)—The Tohokai, influential political party, today passed a resolution asking the government to carry out a "protective" occupation of French Indo-China on the grounds that collapse of the French government leaves the area without effective control and that it has been an avenue of munitions supply for China.

(By International News Service)

TOKYO—The Japanese government today formally demanded that France take adequate steps to halt shipments of arms and ammunition to the Chungking (China) regime by way of French Indo-China.

The official Japanese news agency Domei quoted qualified observers as stating that Japanese expeditionary forces "will take necessary measures" to remove Indo-China from the "anti-Japanese orbit" if the French government fails to comply.

(Editor's Note: Observers were at a loss to understand how France, apparently on the verge of accepting Germany's terms of surrender, could possibly enforce the Japanese stipulations in Indo-China, which lies many thousands of miles from the French capital, the French army and the French fleet. Under the present circumstances, the Japanese demand was regarded virtually as advance notice that Tokyo would move into Indo-China whenever it chooses.)

In accordance with the decision reached at a special session of the inner cabinet yesterday, Vice-Minister for Foreign Affairs Masayuki Tani summoned French Ambassador Arsene Henry to the foreign office and outlined the situation.

He pointed out that Japan expects France to take the proper steps to ensure that French Indo-China voluntarily suspend shipments to Chungking, eliminating the necessity for Japanese action. Henry promised to submit the Japanese demand to his home government without delay.

Meanwhile, the Tohokai reformist minority party adopted a resolution urging "protective occupation" of French Indo-China by Japanese troops. The resolution denounced maintenance of the status quo in that country and in the Dutch East Indies.

CITY TO RECEIVE NEW POSTOFFICE

$310,000 Building Being Planned For Mansfield Donahey Says.

berger said he understood a new building was being considered but he had not been informed today when or where it will be erected.

He said it is probable the new building will be on the site of the present structure and the old insurance property east of it, with the old building left standing until enough of the new structure has been completed to provide temporary postoffice facilities.

The post office department acquired the new West Fourth street site last August from the Mansfield Mutual Fire Insurance company. No move has been made, however, to raze the old insurance building on it.

The present post office was built in 1914 at a cost of $80,000. Postmaster Homberger pointed out that the postal department usually replaces its buildings every 25 years which makes Mansfield due for a new building.

Postmaster Homberger and Mansfield civic leaders have worked for more than three years for enlarged postoffice quarters and representatives of the Chamber of Commerce went to Washington several months ago to urge faster action on the project.

Celebrate Golden Wedding Date at Picnic In Shelby

SHELBY—Mr. and Mrs. Newton Carson of this city today are celebrating their golden wedding anniversary.

A family picnic at Seltzer park tonight will be given by their daughter, Mrs. George Perman, also of Shelby, in their honor of the event. In case of rain the picnic supper will be served at the Perman home.

Mrs. Carson, the former Miss Dillie Milliron, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Milliron of New Washington, married Newton Carson at a church near New Washington June 19, 1890. They lived in that vicinity for a number of years and later came to Shelby where they have made their home for the past 10 years.

A native of Pennsylvania, Mr. Carson, who is 72, retired from his work at the Faith Root Heath company at Plymouth 10 years ago. Mrs. Carson is 73. Both are in fairly good health.

The couple are the parents of another daughter, Mrs. Agnes Harbaugh of Akron, who will come to Shelby today for the anniversary celebration.

and Lieut. Karl Kalstein obtained from tenants in the house, they began a search for a man who worked as a porter in a Main street store.

Officers located him about 1:30 a. m. today asleep in a north side rooming house.

Police said today that the man has a police record involving liquor and gambling charges and once was held for cutting with intent to wound.

He was arrested here four years ago for selling policy tickets and fined $25 and costs. A liquor possession charge brought a $500 fine at one time.

County Prosecutor Glenn W. Marriott who began an investigation last night said he still had several persons to question today. He said that so far as he could learn no one saw the actual stabbing but that persons in the house saw the man enter the woman's room and leave it.

Police said they learned that a man living in the house had gone to the woman's room to ask her for some information and found her lying on the floor with the wound in her throat. The man said that was about 10 minutes after the suspect had left the house.

The woman's body was taken to the Jones Memorial where it will remain until funeral arrangements are completed. She is survived by her husband, Earl Morton of Cleveland, a son, Earl Smith of Mansfield, her mother, Mrs. J. H. Stone of New London, and three brothers and two sisters.

BUMPER CROP

Homegrown Strawberries Sell At Record Low Price.

Warm weather and the frequent showers of the past weeks have combined to bring Mansfield the largest crop of homegrown strawberries in recent years, with prices lower.

Berries are selling in the local stores at 10 and 11 cents per quart, or three quarts for 29 cents, marking a new low in prices here.

A short season will also result from the combined warm weather and showers, according to one local grower, who reported a large crop. He reported that he has been kept busy picking the crop, and is able to sell them as fast as they are brought in from the patch.

According to this grower he is getting 11 cents per quart when purchased by the crate, and 10 cents per quart for smaller berries.

Two other animals in the herd were stunned.

County Engineer Howard Sword said that small streams in the county were out of banks yesterday afternoon, and that there was some damage, as yet unestimated, to gravel roads.

Farmers throughout the county were threatened with more serious crop losses continued wet weather having made planting and cultivation impossible.

C. M. Crafton, service-safety director, said that a large hole had been washed in the roadway at the north end of the South Mulberry viaduct.

The underpass of the Pennsylvania railroad on Park avenue east was flooded with several feet of water which did not recede until late in the evening, necessitating the rerouting of traffic on that street.

Crafton said that street, water and sewer departments worked throughout the afternoon on clogged sewers and that the street department worked all night to clear city streets of mud and debris.

Touby's Run in the northern part of the city was unusually high. Crafton said the water was up to the top of the retaining wall of the new bridge over North Main street.

At Maple Lake park the storm sewer became clogged with broken branches of trees and for a time threatened to wash out the work that has been done at the park. Frank Burton, park commissioner, worked in water that at times came up to his neck.

Complaints continued to pour into the service offices at City building throughout the afternoon and again today.

Mayor Locke said that one man complained that his basement had been flooded with sewer waste five times this year. There were "baby lakes" on West Sixth street and a depression on West Third street.

One of the worst places in the city, according to the mayor, was Bennett street. A. E. Cook, who resides at 180 Bennett street, said that his house was surrounded by water on all sides during the storm yesterday. "Due to a defective sewer system out here," Cook said, "every time it rains hard a lake forms and overflows into my back yard and washes practically everything away with it. I have spent more than $500 fixing up my yard and yet when it rains all I can do is stand here and watch the water wash it away."

Locke said today that the sewer system is not defective but that citizens themselves are responsible for conditions that follow a hard rain. "A sanitary sewer," he said, "is not constructed to carry away storm waters, yet a good share of storm waters from roof drainage is dumped into the sanitary sewers. Every home owner who permits his roof drainage to run into the sanitary sewers is actually dumping sanitary waste into his neighbor's basement."

Locke said that the survey of roof drainage which the WPA conducted several months ago will be completed within a week and that when it is available, the city will take steps to compel everyone to run roof water into the storm sewers where it belongs.

next three or six weeks.

An administration lieutenant, Senator Byrnes (D.-SC.) followed up with the statement that he understood the war department already had worked out plans for such a program.

As argument developed over this defense issue, other aspects of the preparedness program bid for attention on Capitol Hill:

1. Informed sources predicted a substantial additional request for funds for the army.

2. Passage of the navy's surprise $4,000,000,000 fleet expansion plan was unanimously recommended to the house by its naval committee.

3. A senate committee took steps to provide money to start the Ford Motor company on the mass production of airplane engines on government order.

4 Legislation to empower the president to send Red Cross "mercy" ships into the war zone was temporarily blocked by Senator Holt (D.-W.Va.), who accused the administration of stirring up hatred and said the ships might provide an "incident" which would send the country to war.

5. The house passed the senate-approved resolution which puts the United States on record as opposed to the transfer of foreign possessions in the western hemisphere to any non-American power.

President Roosevelt, in outlining the compulsory training program he has under consideration, said it contemplated eventual government service for all of the nation's young men—and perhaps its young women — in promoting the national defense.

Most Democrats in congress gave either flat or conditional endorsement and most Republicans criticized the plan.

Axis Powers Warned By Hull.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—The United States today warned both Germany and Italy that the Monroe Doctrine still operates, constituting notice to them to keep hands off the western hemisphere.

The warning from Secretary of State Hull was conveyed to the axis powers upon his instructions by the American embassies in Berlin and Rome.

The language employed by American envoys in these capitals, it was said, was substantially the same as that in the joint resolution restating the Monroe doctrine which has been passed by both houses of congress.

Great Britain, France and Holland — all of whom have possessions in the western hemisphere—have been notified by the state department of the warning given to the two Fascist powers.

FOREST FURY + + + + + + + + +

By OREN ARNOLD
(Copyright 1940)

CHAPTER V

She didn't even hear him. She just sat still in the car, staring. Bob spoke again, politely.

"It has its own electric light plant, Miss Taylor. And that enables you to pump fresh water from the lake, which is about a half-mile away through the forest. Good fire protection. I told you everything was modern."

* * *

He said it proudly, earnestly. Man talk about things important to a man, especially an outdoor man. Rosemary nodded lest she appear rude, but she could say nothing yet. Everything modern! To her it looked like a set for a movie drama of pioneer days.

She was about to force herself to say something—anything for courtesy's sake—when a large man came abruptly out of the building and strode to the car.

He was by no means an ordinary person; he was not even a white man. His skin appeared black. Above his brown pants was a rich-looking jacket which somehow managed to blowse becomingly, a garment of purple velvet. Around his head, just above the eyebrows, was a two-inch crimson band controlling hair that flowed in ebony cascade almost to his shoulders

"Hi, Walpi, you old cuss!" Bob King boomed, genially. "Miss Taylor, this is Walpi Tom a mean old savage anxious to scalp you. He's been around here for a thousand years. He's general manager of your store."

* * *

Miss Rosemary Taylor, petite New Yorker, couldn't say a thing. She just stared.

Walpi Tom was a man of perhaps 60 years. His wrinkles indicated that much. When he slowly smiled at her, the wrinkles dug deeper into his face. Bright morning sun struck him too, and Rosemary saw the black of him turn slightly golden, like tarnished brass. It even had a hint of red

His hands were massive But clean. His purple jacket was of thick velvet studded with conchos about the size of half dollars. silver ornaments with intricate stampings. A heavy necklace seemed to be designed like silver bear teeth and claws except for a spot or two of blue-green turquoise.

"Walpi Tom is a Hopi Indian, Miss Taylor," Bob King went on, casually. "But he's likely to wear anything That's Navajo jewelry he has on He hasn't sense enough to make good jewelry himself He—"

Rosemary realized that she must at least be courteous

"How do you do, Mr.—Mr. Walpi," she managed.

Bob grinned.

"Do," The Indian nodded, smiling in friendly manner.

"Tom, this lady is the new owner of the store. The lady old Dunc Coulter left it to, see? She's your new boss. You treat her right, or I'm likely to come in here and smack you all over this mountain."

"That's the stuff. Keep friends with people who buy. Now Miss Taylor's a city—city lady, Tom. She doesn't know much about—"

"Oh! Look out! . . . Oh-h-h—!" Rosemary herself interrupted them.

* * *

Her shout of warning ended in a shrill scream. She had not even gotten out of the car, but involuntarily she jerked sideways under the steering wheel.

"Hey, hold on!" Bob commanded. "Take it easy. That's only Cissy, the cat!"

It was indubitably a cat.

A cat bigger than most dogs. Longer, more svelte, more graceful, and far more menacing Weighing perhaps a hundred and fifty pounds. It had moved silently out the front door of the trading post, slipped by Walpi Tom's leg and was rearing up on the very car door itself when Rosemary screamed.

"That's a pet panther, Miss Taylor," Bob hastened to explain. "A mountain lion. Tame as a baby. I shot her mammy myself and brought her in when she was a kitten last year. She's grown up some, but—"

"I should think she has!" Rosemary grasped. "Goodness!"

"She wants to lick your hand, is all. Treat her nice."

Treat her nice!

Rosemary's heart was pounding. She was confused, and excited as well. After expecting—she wondered why—now—a New York style "style," she had come onto this extremely rustic building. Then had met the first Indian she had ever seen, and in the same moment had encountered a mountain lioness big enough to tear her limb from limb

"These big cats never attack humans," Bob King was drawling, seriously. 'They kill a lot of deer and horses and cows, but you needn't be afraid. If she gets to playing rough, or snarls at you, slap her jaws"

"Not I!" Rosemary breathed.

"Sure. Come on out now, and look over your store."

* * *

The tour of inspection turned out to be one of the high spots in Rosemary's entire life. She who had been reared in New York, thought that New York held the sum of this earth's wonders. She, who would never have been seriously impressed by the landing of an English queen or a Fiji islander at a Hudson river dock, found more of strangeness here in Arizona than she could fathom in one day.

The post was not unusual in a western way except that, as Bob had told her, it was unusually large and "nice."

But of its nicety Rosemary saw nothing.

To her, it was terrific letdown. Not at all sure, now, what she had expected, she nevertheless saw little in the place to appeal to her. She stood with Bob and Walpi Tom in the middle of the big store room and silently stared at the merchandise displayed. The only wisdom she could summon at the moment was the wisdom of making no comment at all.

* * *

Fortunately, both Bob and the Indian mistook her silence for approbation. Walpi Tom especially "took to" women who did not make overuse of their tongues. In half an hour he had discovered that his new boss, the pretty New York maiden, said fewer than a dozen words. If he were to learn later that this was abnormal, no matter. It convinced him now that Rosemary Taylor was an intelligent and worthy young woman. It built up in him an instant respect for her, without which he would never have been worth his salt as her employe.

"Is four hundred rug, maybe more," Walpi Tom was enumerating, pointing to the great stacks of Navajos in the rear. "Is much jewelry in case. Is good guns."

Plainly he was proud of the guns the store offered. He got a repeating rifle out for her to handle. Like an automatan she held it a moment, then gave it back to him. There were revolvers, too.

"Is ten, twelve box candy. Indian people like much candy."

Rosemary nodded when he glanced at her then. Candy. Um.

"Is harness for horse there. Is two saddle. Is bridles, and spur. Is some shirt and the four box ice cold drink. You like nice ice-cold drink Walpi Tom fetch now."

He droned it all rapidly, and was gone to the refrigerator befor they could halt him. Dutifully, and with real pleasure, the three swigged red soda pop from bottles — the first time Rosemary had ever done such a thing. Still she had no comment to make, although she was now a little less stunned. Once, copying Bob, she even stooped to pet Cissy when the great cat leaned playfully against their legs. But when she saw Cissy's feline eyes, the predatory gleam in them and the long carnivorous teeth when Cissy yawned, Rosemary shuddered.

"Is the cash ring-'em-up mash the buttons there." Walpi pointed proudly to the cash register. "And is money keep down the hole."

Bob interpreted that.

"He means there's a metal safe in the floor, Miss Taylor, where you can put money at night, against burglars. Nearest bank is at Flagstaff."

"I see," said Rosemary, still much befogged. "But I shan't care to go much into all that. I expect to sell the store at once. Today, if possible."

"Sell? Today?"

"Oh, yes. I—"

"Why, we can't let you do that! Anyhow, it'll take time. Why—listen, Mis Taylor, you'll like it here. This is grand! High and clean and exhilarating all the year, and a lot of tourists pass by here. And it's only an hour or so up to the Grand Canyon itself. All around here are show places. National monuments. The Painted Desert. The petrified forset. Sunset Crater, Wupatki Ruins. The Kaibab Forest with the best hunting in North America. Some fine ranches and the best people — friendly people, I mean! Why you must give us a chance to get acquainted!"

* * *

He said it all so earnestly that she was impressed She lifted her head to look into his eyes. Bob King was handsome! Handsome and strong. And very youngish. In spite of herself Rosemary smiled at him.

'Mighty sweet of you to urge me," she said. "But I am New York to the core."

"Aw, say—but listen!"

She walked back to the porch, ignoring Walpi's efforts ot enumerate the store's stock further. Bob followed her there and would have continued his earnest pleading, except that they both saw a girl riding up on a horse.

"Hi, Bob!" the newcomer called cheerily. "What's new?"

"'Morning, Sue. Uh, Sue — Miss McKee, this is Miss Taylor. Miss Taylor just came from the East. Sue is Mr. McKee's daughter." He was quite serious about it.

"How strange!" Rosemary laughed out loud, Sue joining her "How do you do, Miss McKee?"

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 19, 1940.

Under present conditions a political machine is a poor substitute for a military machine.

Thoughts have been so distressing in recent weeks that the horn-honking motorist is almost to be envied.

Norman Thomas is in the enviable position of having the fun of running for president without any of the worries about what he would do if elected.

Hitler's Promises Mean Nothing

THE BITTERNESS between France and Germany, which has carried through centuries and was given new intensity by the outcome of the World war in 1918, is again being reflected in Hitler's determination to enforce "harsh" terms on France—and just how "harsh" Hitler's treatment can be may be judged by his past record in his own country and in the nations that have been ruthlessly dismembered by his invading armies.

Whether France continues to fight, or is finally compelled to accept whatever terms Hitler and Mussolini decide upon, the fact remains that no mercy can be expected by any nation over which these dictators gain the upper hand as a result of superior military strength.

There has been much discussion in the United States over a recent interview in which Hitler was quoted by an American journalist, Karl von Weigand, as having said that he had no territorial or political interest in North or South America, and that there was no such thing as a "fifth column" involved in German strategy. He also pledged himself anew to the achievement of peace.

But such assurances will carry no weight with Americans who recall earlier pious declarations by the Fuehrer—in fact he may be expected at all times to do quite the opposite of what he says.

On May 17, 1933, for instance, Hitler said, "The German people have no thought of invading any country." But German troops have since occupied no less than ten countries.

On January 13, 1934, Hitler said, "The assertion that the German Reich plans to coerce the Austrian state is absurd and cannot be substantiated or proved." Yet on March 12, 1938, the Nazis took over Austria.

On March 16, 1935, Hitler said, "Germany has concluded a non-aggression pact with Poland . . . and she will adhere to it unconditionally." The treaty was for ten years beginning in 1934, but on September 1, 1939, the invasion of Poland began.

On March 7, 1936, Hitler said, "We have no territorial demands to make in Europe." However, his demands have not ceased from that day to this.

On May 1, 1936, Hitler said, "The lie goes forth again that Germany tomorrow or the day after will fall upon Austria or Czechoslovakia." But Austria was taken in 1938 and Czechoslovakia was seized on March 15, 1939.

On September 10, 1937, Hitler said, "Germany is the guarantor of peace because she warns all those who from Moscow endeavor to set the world in flames." Nevertheless, on August 24, 1939, Germany and Russia signed a non-aggression pact for a period of ten years.

On September 26, 1938, Hitler said, "We have assured all our immediate neighbors of the integrity of their territory as far as Germany is concerned. That is no hollow phrase: it is our sacred will. . . . The Sudetenland is the last territorial claim which I have to make in Europe." Yet since that time Czechoslovakia, Memel, Poland, Denmark, Norway, Holland, Belgium and France have been invaded.

If there are any who might even yet be inclined to believe that Hitler has no interest in the Western Hemisphere it may be well to recall what he says in his book, "Mein Kampf." Here is the way he puts it: "The primitive simplicity of minds of the masses renders them a more easy prey to a big lie than to a small one, for they themselves often tell little lies but would be ashamed to tell big ones. They would never credit to others the possibility of such great impudence as the complete reversal of facts."

From all of which it would appear that Hitler's direct statement that he has "no territorial or political interest in North or South America" should be ample warning to proceed with all haste to guard against military aggression and even more vicious "fifth column" activities.

Sewer Capacity Inadequate

YESTERDAY'S heavy rainfall, with hundreds of basements flooded because of inadequacy of storm-water sewers to quickly handle the volume suddenly poured into them, brought another flurry of public interest in Mansfield's need for reconstruction of the city's sewer system, which is of insufficient capacity to meet above ordinary requirements.

As was said after the defeat, last August, of a bond issue intended to meet the city's share of a proposed reconstruction of Mansfield's sewer and water systems, the problem still remains to be solved.

Just as there is truth in the old saying, "a chain is no stronger than its weakest link," a city's sewer lines must be regarded as inadequate if they are not of sufficient size and correct engineering to handle more than an ordinary rainfall, for it is at such times that storm-water sewers are most needed.

The Park avenue east subway condition is also an unfortunate one, for which there appears to be no immediate remedy, unless a way can be found to prevent the backflow of water from the drainage outlet during progress of heavy rains. The trouble here seems to be that "nothing can be done about it while it is raining, and when it isn't raining there's no need to do anything."

Mansfield's growth during the past ten years, and present indications of continued advancement, encourages an idea that further efforts should be made to proceed, as soon as possible, with plans to modernize this city's sewer system and water distribution facilities.

Saving Smokes for Soldiers

GIRLS must stop smoking in college, according to a new Nazi rule, because smoking "has been scientifically demonstrated to be bad for women." But that is only part of the picture.

The other part is that "every cigaret that female students do not smoke now saves one for the soldiers at the front."

This latter consideration, at least, is reasonable. If the transient consolations of tobacco are needed anywhere, they are surely needed by the fighting men in this most exhausting and terrible of all wars.

Research discloses that dissatisfaction with life has been traced to overeating—but undereating hasn't caused a very satisfied feeling either.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Clare Maxwell, of Life magazine, and Charles H. Babb, who deals in airplanes, are two of the best wing shots in the country. They are also clay pigeon experts, and they are enthusiastic about the miniature pigeon range on the midway at the World's Fair. This range is similar to a regular shooting gallery with the exception that the automatic 22-rifles are munitioned with shells that shoot a mustard seed pattern of tiny lead pellets. The game is 8 shots for a quarter, and the miniature pigeons or discs, are sprung from tiny traps beneath the counter where the shooters stand. It is nothing for Maxwell or Babb to break 98 of 100.

The story of Babb's proficiency with guns is interesting because he has only one hand. He has offices at Glendale, Calif., and at the LaGuardia Airport in New York. Babb buys and sells old planes. He is the man who acquired most of the old Ford trimotor jobs and sold them to companies in South America, where they are used to transport lumber out of the high mountainous regions. One plane, in one hour, can equal the work of a heavy pack train in two weeks.

* * *

MAXWELL is an editor who follows the shooting seasons throughout the country. He was telling me at dinner the other night his plans for a return to the duck paradises of the Arkansas swamps this winter. All arrangements have been made. Last year he brought back a quota of plump mallards from Arkansas, by plane, and gave a magnificent duck dinner for Charles Rochester, Hotel Lexington managing director; Babb, Jack Frye, TWA president, and this correspondent.

The pigeon range at the Fair isn't the only shooting gallery in operation along the noisy midway. Like those at Coney Island and at other parks and pleasure resorts throughout the metropolitan area, they have taken on overtones of the war. They have brought themselves up to the level of the headlines.

This means that clap pipes and ducks are being replaced by swinging parachutists and airplanes.

* * *

"MOW 'Em Down" is the cry around one remarkable stand, where BB machine guns are in operation. These machine-guns are operated by compressed air, and you get 50 shots for a dime. The 50 shots last about two seconds. You shoot at miniature planes suspended from the ceiling by runner strings. An interesting point about these machine guns is that private ownership is illegal. They are available only for exhibitors and shooting galleries. They are not practical for private ownership because they are fed "air" by a line similar to the "free air" line for your car at gasoline stations. When I was a kid BB-shot were lead. Now they are cut from steel and copper coated. The effect is that they are easy to follow with the eye, and shooting these machine-guns gives the impression of filling the air with tracer bullets.

There are 36 establishments in Manhattan alone that have taken the name of the New Deal, and these range from restaurants and liquor stores to garages, neckwear companies and a dairy. There is also the New Deal Export Company and the New Deal Steam and Hot Water Heating Company. On the other side of the ledger, however, it may be announced that Manhattan sports the G. O. P. eatery, a night hamburger stand not far from the Harlem river.

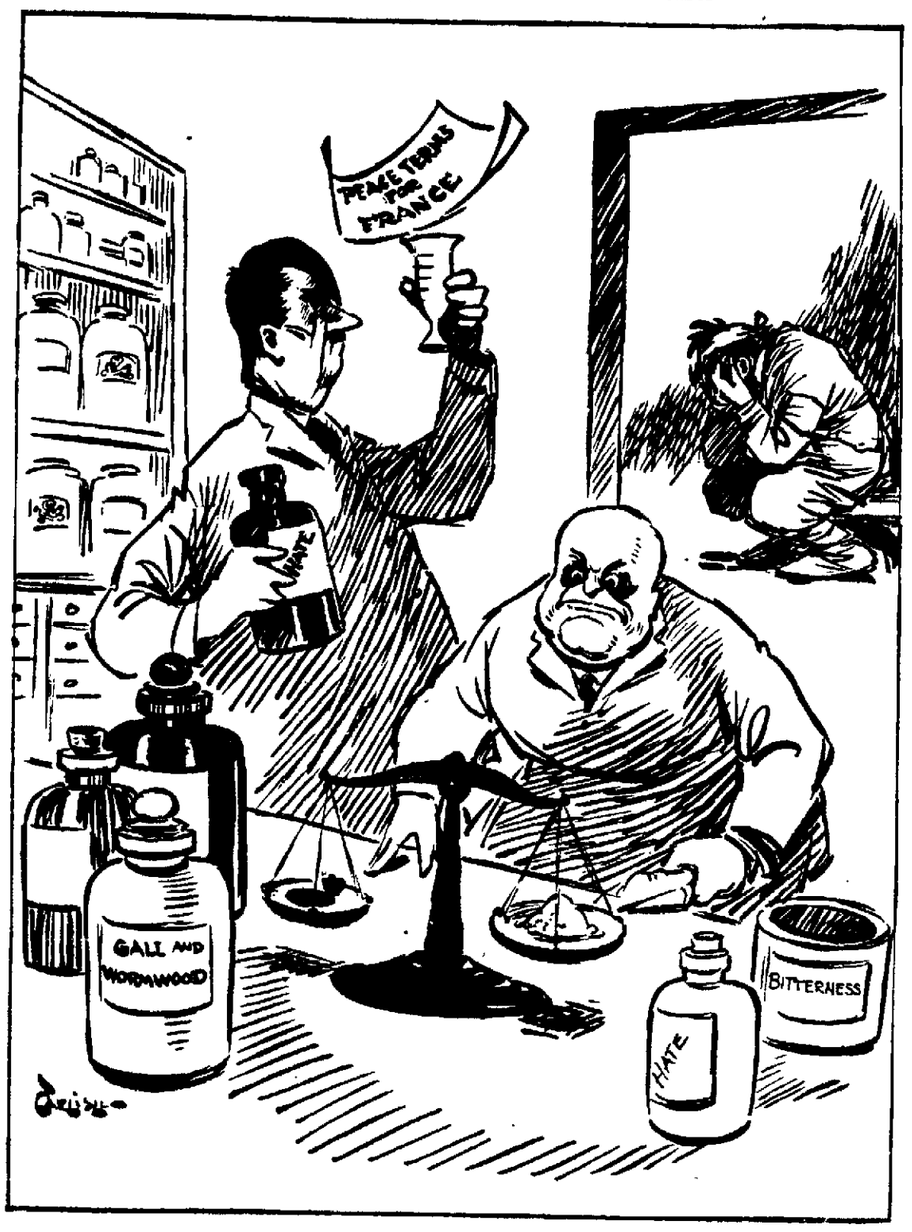
CONCOCTING THE BITTER PILL



Health And Diet

Vitamins Help Fight Arthritis.

—By DR. CLENDENING

"SOMETHING you ate, no doubt," is a common conclusion to which the friends, or so-called friends of people with arthritis often come. Most forms of arthritis, however, are not due to any misused food substances. Arthritis is sometimes associated with overweight and overweight certainly doesn't help a case of arthritis. A man who weighs 220 pounds puts a great strain on the joints of his feet, ankles, knees and hips, and if he is subject to arthritis at all, this pressure tells.

Other patients would improve their arthritis if they were able to improve their general nutritional condition in order to have more energy to fight it. So it is best to give them a full or a little more than full diet, with plenty of calories, a diet high in vitamins, fresh foods—fruits and vegetables.

No One Rule.

There is, therefore, no one rule about diet in arthritis. Arthritics who are overweight should reduce and those who are underweight should be put on very liberal feedings.

The idea still persists that uric acid formed out of certain foods will cause arthritis. The only form of arthritis in which this is true is gouty arthritis, which is not a common condition, and usually has nothing to do with ordinary chronic arthritis. Purine foods release a large amount of uric acid in the blood and this tends to aggravate the gouty form of arthritis. A diet, therefore, for gouty arthritis would be one which includes foods which contain little or no purine.

Diet List.

The following list will show a grouping of foods according to their purine content:

Foods that contain a large amount of purine—

Sweetbreads, Liver, Kidney, Squab, Calf's tongue, Turkey, Pork, Goose, Anchovies, Sardines, Meat extractives, Meat soups.

Foods that contain a moderate amount of purine—

Chicken, Mutton, Bacon, Oysters, Herring, Salmon, Lobster, Crab, Asparagus, Lima beans, Navy beans, Onions, Peas, Spinach.

Foods that contain no purine—

Milk, Eggs, Cheese, Caviar, Shad roe, Nuts, Gelatin, Sugar and sweets, Coffee*, Tea*, Cocoa* Fats of all kinds, Fruits of all kinds, Cereals (except whole grain), Bread (except whole grain).

*Contain practically no purine as served.

The gouty patient in an acute attack should restrict himself to the list of foods that contain no purine and should never eat any of the foods that contain large amounts of purine.

Listen, World!

Use Beauty As Shield Against Despair.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

I'M PLAYING a strange sort of a game with myself, these days—a game that may be equally good for what ails you. It started with that horror in Europe.

There have been wars before, hideous ones. But there's something about this particular hellishness which gets you where you live . . . undermines your faith in decency . . . makes a mock of all civilized codes . . . shakes your very sanity unless you can find some protection against it.

By "protection" I don't mean some new fad with a Pollyanna philosophy. This monstrous thing can't be eliminated by chucking it under the chin and crying "Naughty! Naughty!" Any effective counter-offensive must be as virile and as tangible as an army maneuver, potent enough to conquer the deadliest blitzkrieg of doubt and dread, yet simple enough to be used by the most timid and inexperienced. And I think I've found just such a miracle worker. What's the recipe? Simply this:

Do you feel that the world has gone to the dogs and you might as well go with it? Then lay hold of some proof that Right goes marching on! Compare the sacrifice and selfless love of a Father Damien with the mad-dog selfishness of a Hitler; the warm humanity of an Abraham Lincoln with the cold-blooded viciousness of a Goebbels; the blessed service of a Pasteur with the mass murders of a Stalin.

Yes, it is true that Hitler's regimented robots are rolling over every obstacle today. But so did Alexander's in their time, and Caesar's, and Attila the Hun's! Then, too people thought that decency had come to an end and the world was a burned-out star. But it hadn't—and it wasn't. The armies passed, leaving their bloody trail. But hospitals and schools now stand where those trails once ran . . . and a new dream of peace and brotherly love stirs in hearts which once knew only lust for conquest and carnage.

GOD STILL IS IN HIS HEAVEN . . . AND IF ALL ISN'T RIGHT JUST YET, IT PRESENTLY WILL BE. GIVE THE SOUL TIME!

Oppose Beastliness with Beauty; it really works. Time and again, lately, when my spirit has grown cold with disgust and doubt, I've warmed it with the thought of some small, kindly act which proved the triumph of Goodness as surely as the roar of a long distance gun proves the existence of a fighting front.

And it's amazing how much Beauty you can find if you start searching for it. Our lives are rooted in and constantly refreshed by the courage and kindness of millions whom we've never seen. The trouble is, WE TAKE GOODNESS FOR GRANTED, AND UNDERESTIMATE ITS TREMENDOUS POWER. Worse yet, we've a sneaking idea that the Bad Man has a lot more on the ball than the Righteous Citizen.

Stupid Notion No. 6,927,543! Badness is neither smart, strong nor lasting. It is simply a hangover from the jungle, fitted to the capacity of any wolf or snake.

But Goodness is a gesture toward Heaven—the evidence of God on the march! And it takes infinitely more courage and initiative to be Good, in this selfish, suspicious world than to be Bad. Any ruthless thug with an itching trigger finger can kill one man or a million. But it requires a peculiarly gallant and generous soul to give men new warmth and joy, new faith and self-respect.

PUT YOUR BETS ON BEAUTY! THE JUNGLE PASSES—BEASTLINESS WILL PASS WITH IT. BEAUTY GOES ON AND ON!

Timely Editorial

Beating the Tax.

Just as the news comes from Washington that the federal gasoline tax may be increased to help build up a huge fund for national defense, an inventor announces at Tulsa, Okla., that the automobile of the future will be powered by a suitcase size engine and that it will go 30 to 35 miles at 60 miles an hour on a gallon of gasoline.

It is possible, if not probable, that radically new models of motor cars will not get into production for some time. A heavy curtailment of gasoline consumption would, of course, defeat the purpose of the tax increase, but such conservation of a national resource which is as indispensable to mechanized warfare as it is to peace-time pursuits, would serve a vastly more important purpose, if the oil reserves of the United States are to be depleted in 12 years, as has been predicted.—Toledo Blade.

Calamus Swamp

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THIS is our first summer on this farm. Everything is new. There is a charm in new ecquaintanceship with any lovely place. There is fun in exploration — in finding wild strawberries on the hill where just a while ago the mushrooms grew. In watching the remnant of formal garden left by those before us for signs of perennial plants. In mowing the big lawn for the first time with a newly sharpened mower and admiring the lights and shadows on the billowing greenness. In dusting the budding rose vines with insect killer and speculating as to their color. In watching dainty blooms of raspberry and blackberry above the spring bank and wondering how many berries they will yield.

There is something sweet and cool, these hot days, about the glossy swaying green of the calamus swamp. Below the pond it starts and meanders several hundred yards to the edge of the farm where the water from our spring enters Honey Creek. Little rivulets of clear cold water flow shallowly about the whited pungent roots of this slender-bladed marsh plant. Clumps of swamp grass are there, too tall round pithy centered spikes with little fringes of seed pods near the tips. The shades of green are lovely—from daintist yellow-green to darkest emerald.

I walked along the margin of the stream—barefoot, for the walking was soppy—and stood breast high among the waving pointed shoots. The earth beneath my feet was black. Between the clumps of calamus and the bank light green wavy ribbons of algae swayed and rippled. A pair of red-winged blackbirds flew above the swamp, the sunshine gleaming on the scarlet markings. Far down along the marsh a cock pheasant hoarsely called. Into the leafy maze darted a green frog. The limpid water trickled.

Whoever has tasted calamus cannot forget it. I thrust my hand down into the cool stream, broke off a fragrant stalk and pared back the outer part to the white tender center. I sniffed the peculiar odor and my mouth watered at the oddly pleasing bitterness of its flavor. I nibbled a bit, then carried the rest in my pocket, fingering it for the odor and the memories it evoked. Greatuncle Malachi kept a few dried calamus roots in a little bag in his chimney cupboard. A calamus swamp brings back memeories of my boyhood days.

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Most striking indication that Hitler fears American intervention in Europe was his recent interview with Karl von Wiegand, ace correspondent of the Hearst newspapers.

Hitler hadn't given an interview to a newspaperman since the war started. He kept completely isolated. But, significantly enough, the initiative for this one came from Hitler himself.

Von Wiegand for many years has been a correspondent in Germany, and apparently was selected as the man who could best put across a message to the American people to the effect that Hitler would keep out of the Western Hemisphere.

Most significant fact about the interview was its timing. It came simultaneously with Premier Reynaud's two appeals for American aid and with U. S. moves to send more war supplies to the Allies.

U. S. observers deducted that Hitler was more concerned over American aid than he liked to admit.

* * *

German Embassy.

SIGNIFICANT hint that the German government does not soon expect the resumption of full diplomatic representation with the United States is the fact that it has given up the lease of the large combination mansion and chancery, located near the British and Brazilian embassies on Massachusetts Ave. Here Ambassador Hans Dieckhoff lived until his recall "to report on conditions in the United States" about two years ago.

It is also reported that the plans for the new German embassy, an elaborate modernistic structure scheduled for erection on S Street, facing the homes of Herbert Hoover and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, have been filed away in a dusty Berlin pigeon-hole.

The present embassy, located far downtown on Massachusetts Ave., is an ugly red brick structure, a "hangover" from pre-World war days. It is almost entirely surrounded by boarding houses and apartments for government clerks.

* * *

No Bore Willkie.

VIVACIOUS Mrs. Wendell Willkie is very proud of her White House-aspiring husband. Telling friends about it the other day, she said: "The reason I married him was because I knew I could never be bored."

"Has he ever beat you?" laughed one of the friends.

"No," chuckled Mrs. Willkie, "not yet, anyway. I wouldn't mind beatings just so long as I wasn't bored. I couldn't stand that."

* * *

U. S. War Production.

ONE very real worry among some of Roosevelt's friends is that after all the hullabaloo over national defense, October may come around with not many more airplanes or tanks constructed.

This, they know, would be disastrous to the country, but also from a purely political viewpoint it would mean the defeat of President Roosevelt or any other Democratic candidate at the polls in November.

This possibility has caused shaking of heads even among several cabinet members who have seen how slowly other projects moved in the past. They know that with the nation voting the biggest national defense budget in peacetime history, and with the president himself emphasizing its urgency, the country is going to expect results and expect them fast.

But they also know it takes time to get dies set, machines ordered, plans made (about one year for battleships) and contracts signed. And they know the weak spots in their own Administration in respect to red tape and efficiency.

* * *

Comic Cabinet.

THE PRESIDENT, when assistant secretary of the navy, had an excellent record for speeding production. He went out and bought up raw materials to such an extent that the army complained about it.

However, a lot of Roosevelt's intimates now feel he has got too soft-hearted about picking people—and firing them. Best illustration is his own cabinet, where if the situation wasn't so serious it would be screamingly funny.

The president wants to get rid of Secretaries Woodring and Perkins; has told inner circle intimates (who warn him that the Republicans plan to make an issue of the pair) that he would replace them. Yet he can't bring himself to hand them their walking papers.

Within the week the president has asked several friends if they could arrange to have Woodring and Perkins told they "ought" to tender their resignations.

Amusing thing about this indirection is that if there is anything Roosevelt ought to know by now, it is that only a blast of TNT will oust his secretaries of war and labor. They have repeatedly shown themselves as impervious to hints as Hitler is to mercy.

Twice in six months the president has offered Woodring diplomatic jobs. But both times he stood pat and Roosevelt let him get away with it. At present Woodring is almost an outsider in the inner workings of the defense program, has scarcely been consulted. But that doesn't seem to shake his determination to hang on no matter what the snubs.

* * *

"Fanny the Perk."

MISS PERKINS, idealistic and well-meaning but as out of place in the labor department as a pacifist in Germany, doesn't even seem to be aware that she isn't welcome.

Roosevelt has practically dismantled her department from under her. His last two moves were to transfer the immigration bureau to Attorney General Jackson and to appoint Sidney Hillman as defense labor chief. Yet judging from what Miss Perkins earnestly tells friends, she is firmly convinced that "Frank" has no thought of wanting to replace her.

"If I felt for one moment," she said recently, "that the president wanted my resignation, he would have it within an hour."

Administrationites blame Mrs. Roosevelt for Miss Perkins' continuance in the cabinet. They say that if it weren't for the first lady, the president would have had a new labor secretary long ago. Mrs. Roosevelt not only has gone to bat for Miss Perkins, but has advised her not to quit.

Note:—Some in the White House circle attribute the president's delay in revamping the cabinet to politics. They say that if he made changes before the Chicago convention, it would be taken as evidence that he was planning to run again. Insiders predict that Roosevelt's first move after being "drafted" will be to replace Woodring and Perkins.

PHILADELPHIA—(U.P.)—A lover of Dickens would be fortunate in living in Philadelphia, according to Harold Donaldson Eberlein, author.

In an address before the Dickens Fellowship, Eberlein said:

"We are fortunate in living in Philadelphia. It is one of the few cities in the world where one can still see characters who might have walked out of Charles Dickens' books.

SAFETY QUIZ ON CLUB'S PROGRAM

Head of Columbus Council Puts on Novel Stunt at Rotary Luncheon.

Novelty was introduced into a safety program at Tuesday's Rotary meeting, held at the Mansfield-Leland hotel by a quiz contest conducted by D. K. Finley, manager of the Columbus Safety Council, which has made a notable record of accident reduction in that city in recent years.

Two teams, captained by Louis F. Hartman and Charles E. Nail, consisted of Louis A. Ott, Wesley Purdy and Floyd Dent on the Hartman team and Alfred Colby, E. K. Bacon and W. L. Miller on the Nail team.

"True or false" answers were required to questions bearing on some phase of safety, each answer being discussed briefly by the master of ceremonies.

A number of city officials and others interested in Mansfield's safety program were among the guests.

Charles H. Keating was program chairman of the meeting. New officers and directors, who assume office July 1, will be installed at next Tuesday's meeting, they being Clifford G. Hillier, president; Robert C. Remy, vice president; Walter W. Willis, secretary-treasurer, and William C. Mead and Fred L. Tracy, newly elected members of the board of directors.

With MARIANNE

WITH the warm summer days an actuality, you'll want to make sure that Junior and Sister are dressed for all possible comfort and coolness. . . . Toddler overalls, which range in size from one to four, are just the thing for outdoor play. . . . In seersucker and pique, these come in stripes and solid colors with appliqued and embroidered trim. . . . For cooler days and evenings, these overalls can be worn with boyish polo shirts of all colors in silk or jersey net, seersucker or shantung. . . . About the cutest sunsuits I've ever seen are being shown at one of the downtown stores now. . . . Fashioned from white seersucker, they are trimmed with striped ruffles and topped with matching bolero jacket no bigger than a minute. . . . Other styles have matching sunbonnets and are made of shantung, and pique. . . . In fact, there are all kinds of clever styles ranging in sizes from one to six. . . . Boys' swim trunks (in sizes four to eight) are just like daddy's, in striped satin lastex of red, blue or green with white as well as knitted rayon in white appliqued with palm tree designs.

Marianne

* * *

Have you seen those practical longie outfits for boys in sizes three to eight? Made of shantung, seersucker or poplin, these suits come in solid or two-tone color combinations of shirt and trousers. And one of the nicest features about them is that you can purchase them with long or short trousers—whichever you and your son prefer.

* * *

WHEN it comes to Baby Dumpling, you can dress his crib up in the latest style with a chenille spread. These are being shown in pink or blue with white chenille nursery animal designs, and in white with pink and blue animals. . . . You'll want baby's buggy to look just right when you take him for a stroll, and so you'll find that a carriage set will do the trick. . . . The downtown stores have these in quilted pink and blue satin—both the carriage and pillow covers.

* * *

Fruit fragrances are leading the parade of summer colognes. . . . The coolest looking ones of all are those that come in large bottles, shaped to resemble pineapples, with green leaves sprouting from the cork tops. . . . Although tinted pale green, amber, purple and orange, all of this cologne has the tangy aroma of fresh pineapples. . . . Orange and apple blossom perfumes and colognes are also nice summertime odors, and some of the cutest ones are contained in wooden oranges and apples which look real enough to eat.

* * *

IF YOU'RE looking for a new shade of polish to give dash to your fingernails, you'll be sure to like "Pirate Red," "Red Sand" or "Sail Red." The first is very dark—almost blood red, the second has a dusky tone, while the other is a Chinese red. . . . These can be obtained separately, or in clever little kits of leather, silk or straw—and by the way, the latter have compacts to match them.

* * *

Speaking of compacts, the most attractive ones for summer are those Wedgwood styles. . . . In round, square and pouch shapes, these come in pale pastel colors, black and white and are trimmed with a raised floral and leaf design (similar to that used on some patterns of Wedgwood china) in either white or black. . . . Typical summer bath balls are those which look like overgrown golf balls, while soap toys for kiddies are the three little fishies, hobby-horses and soldiers on parade.

* * *

YOU'LL find the coolest summertime protection from all these showers in the new glass raincoats. . . . Yes they're really made from glass and consequently are elastic, won't crack or peel and will always resume their original shape. They are double-breasted, fastening with glass buttons, have a notched collar and belted waistline. Coming in white, brown, navy blue and black, there are hoods to match all of them.

Note: The styles described above are available in Mansfield shops. You can learn where they may be obtained if you will telephone Marianne at The News-Journal between 1 and 2:30 p. m.—Canal 4251.

BOTTLE FED PLANTS

When transplanting late in the season with the possibility of a spell of dry weather setting in, special precautions should be taken to have ample moisture available for each plant's roots. Before attempting to set the plant in the new hole which has been dug for it, fill the hole with water and allow it to seep into the soil. If the ground seems particularly dry the hole should be filled with water two or three times to assure bottom moisture for the roots of the transplanted plant.

Another method of furnishing enough moisture for a newly placed plant is to water it from a bottle, as shown in today's Garden-Graph. To do this, fill a quart milk bottle with water, turn it upside down, and push it neck first into the loose soil close to the plant. The water will seep into the soil from the inverted bottle, slowly giving the plant needed moisture over a two-day period.

WOOLEN WASHING HINT

It's best to use lukewarm washing and rinsing waters when you launder woolens. Make up mild soap or soap powder into a soft, fluffy mass and place it in the washing water just before you put in the woolens. Never rub soap directly on them—you might break threads or stretch the garment out of shape.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"Please!" she said. "I could not take the money under those conditions. When I am once Phil's wife, I shall have ample funds at my disposal, for in his princely fashion he is insisting upon settling a really royal amount upon me."

She looked at me a bit quizzically, while a whimsical smile curved the corners of her lips.

"I suppose to your American ideas, you do not see the difference between Tweedle dee dee, and Tweedle dee dum," she said. "I understand you do not have settlements over here."

"Not usually," I told her, smiling.

"But with me it is so familiar a thing that, while I could not listen for a moment to Phil's suggestion that he buy my wedding trousseau, I see no incongruity whatever in repaying you after my marriage from the settlement which Phil is making upon me, and the use of which he will never question, nor know any of its details."

"Dear Olga!" I said, putting my hand over hers, "do not bother your head another second over my possible reaction to your tenets. Pay me whenever you choose. All I ask now is that you permit me to advance you enough money so that you will not feel 'skimped'—a good old American word."

"I love it," she returned, laughing, and patently at her ease again. "And now," she went on, pushing back her chair and rising. "I must not keep you another second. I know how very busy you are, and I will go directly to my room and make out that list. But there is no hurry about your seeing it. When you are ready for it, let me know."

"I am busy," I admitted truthfully, "but never too busy to see you. I can look over the list at any time after tonight."

"It will be ready for you," she said. "And thank you again, my dear—for everything."

Her hand brushed my shoulder with a caressing gesture, and then she was gone, and I hurried out of the library and up the stairs to Lillian's room.

As I knocked on the door, there was a rush of feet inside, and when the door swung open, Lillian and Mary were closest to the door with Dicky, Harry and Noel close behind them.

"Crowd in and get the door closed!" Lillian adjured me in a low voice, but when I was safely inside and the door locked, Harry Underwood caught me by the hand and swung me into place beside him.

"All join hands and circle round the next Veritzen star," he commanded, pushing Mary into the center of our quickly formed circle. Then he intoned softly but mischievously, "For she's to be queen of the May, folks, no matter what princesses say," and with the utter relief and abandon which some foolish gesture affords people who have been under a nervous strain, we chanted the ridiculous rhyme, and danced around Mary who laughed as delightedly as a child at our antics.

"It's all over but the shouting now, Mary," Dicky assured her.

"He couldn't take the part away from me now, could he?" Mary asked.

"Not without losing his own face so far that he never could get it back again," Lillian assured her, and Mary relaxed.

"Old Phil sure acknowledged the corn on everything," Harry Underwood drawled. "Dictographs and every little thing. And he sure has the greatest respect for the resourcefulness of our spouses, ne'st ce pas, Dicky bird?"

"But he found out what we were trying so hard to keep from him," I said, childishly voicing a pique which had been mine ever since Philip announced his discovery of what I had been doing for Mary.

Taste Dictates Fashion

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

The dictionary defines the dowager, among other things, as an "elderly woman of dignity."

In this stage of the world's history there are admittedly no elderly women. Beauty parlors, beauty columnists, face-lifters, no-older-than-you-feel philosophies, and religions claiming that age is a state of mind have eliminated the elderly woman.

But you can't do away with the older woman, no matter how hard you try. When she attends a fashion show and sees a charming young mannikin pirouetting in a hoopskirted gown, if she's sensible, she'll murmer to herself, "Not for me." Those lovely bouffant affairs that add to the witchery of Sweet and Twenty are not for the older woman, unless she is doing penance for her former sins.

They make the birthdays sing out; they add to the general tubbiness which is apt to accumulate layer upon layer after fifty. That cruel bulginess which comes in spite of dieting, rolling and the gym. Chins bulge, chests bulge, stomachs bulge, then why in the name of goodness add a bulging skirt?

Mrs. Roosevelt, always suitably and becomingly dressed, without a suggestion of the prevailing grotesquerie in hats, skirts, shoes or anything else, reminded women to cultivate taste when she opened the New York Fair's Fashion World.

Fashions should be pretty and not just smart, and made available to all women in America, Mrs. Roosevelt reminded her hearers, after she had cut the red, white and blue rope across the building's silver doors. And she went on to say:

"This exhibit should show what you can do with taste, even if you haven't much money. Women must decide whether fashion is really becoming before they definitely adopt it, since it is going to reach down to every group of American women."

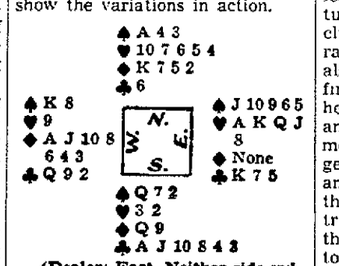
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

NO TRUMP FOR VARIETY

Those who oppose law changes which would make minor suits equal to majors in game-producing value are in most cases lovers of No Trump play. Since the proposed amendments would cause a larger number of suit contracts and a smaller number of No Trump games, they consider bridge would be a loser thereby. It is undeniable that there are more possible variations of play in the average No Trump contract than in most suit ones, and it is this variety which lends much of the charm to the game, especially duplicate, which gets a chance to show the variations in action.



(Dealer: East. Neither side vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
1 ♠	2 ♣	2 ♦	2 ♥
Dbl	3 ♣	Dbl	Pass
3 NT

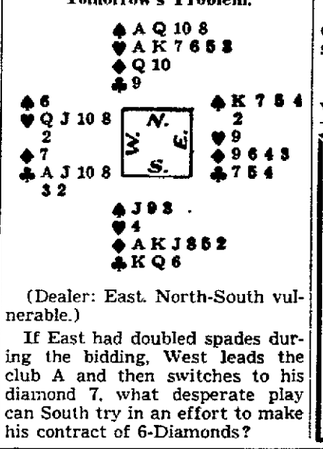
Bidding went about the same at most tables of a big duplicate tournament, except that in some cases South took a set at Clubs.

The interesting battles in play came, though, at the No Trump tables. In one case South led the club J to the Q. The heart 9, not covered, was allowed to win, and North likewise stayed off the spade K, winning the 8 with his A and returning his diamond K to make an entry for South in the suit. East let that win. North then played the spade 3 to the Q, whereupon South cashed the club A. Now he had to lead to East, who ran game.

Where North won the spade K lead to the third trick and returned a spade to South's Q, the club A was scored, but then East ran game and an overtrick. Game also resulted where East won the first club, led the spade J, which held, then the spade 5 to the K and A, North returning the diamond K to the A and South then getting the diamond Q. Spade Q and club A. One declarer started this same way, but on the fourth trick, North led a heart, won by the 9. The diamond A, diamond J to the Q, club A and club to the Q followed, then a diamond to the K, the spade 3 to the Q and three club tricks, setting that sad declarer four tricks.

* * *

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable.)

If East had doubled spades during the bidding, West leads the club A and then switches to his diamond 7, what desperate play can South try in an effort to make his contract of 6-Diamonds?
